U. S. Reported Set To Lead U. N. Parley

World Panel Plans Emergency Session On Mid-East Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States was reported ready today to take the lead in pressing the emergency U. N. Assembly for a quick Middle East cease-fire.

This word came as the 76-nation Assembly prepared to meet tonight to try to get around the difficulties raised by British and French vetoes in the Security Council.

Whether Britain and France would attend the meeting still was not known. Spokesmen for the two delegations said the question had not been decided.

Both countries vigorously opposed the calling of the meeting.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., was reported to be working with a group of other countries, including key members of the African-Asian bloc, on a resolution which would call for an immediate cease-fire and demand the immediate withdrawal of Israeli, British and French forces from Egyptian territory.

The U. N. Security Council voted 7-2 Wednesday night to summon the Assembly after Britain and France launched air and naval operations against Egypt with the announced aim of occupying the Suez Canal zone and halting the Israeli-Egyptian fighting.

Less than 24 hours earlier Britain and France had vetoed U. S. and Soviet resolutions in the council for a cease-fire in Egypt and withdrawal of Israeli troops.

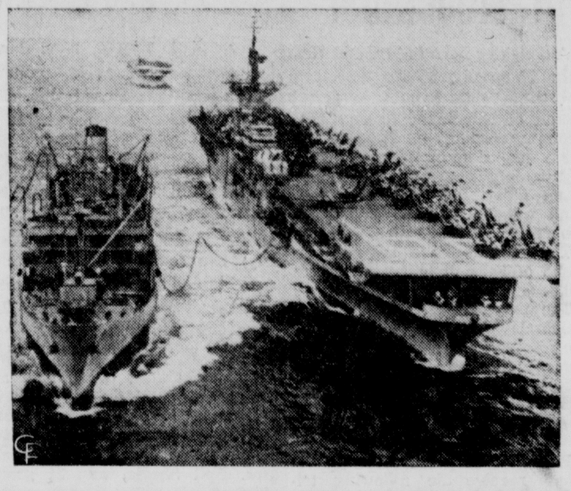

Under the resolution introduced by Yugoslavia, the special session of the 76-nation Assembly will consider recommendations to U. N. members for collective measures, including "the use of armed force when necessary."

Less drastic steps could include a condemnation of Britain, France and Israel, a cease-fire call, or a request that U. N. members punish the three with diplomatic and economic measures.

* * *

BRITAIN AND France voted against the resolution to convene the Assembly, contending it was illegal. Australia and Belgium abstained. The United States and the Soviet Union were among those casting favorable votes, further emphasizing the grave split in the Western alliance.

Rudecindo Ortega, chief of Chile's delegation who was slated to preside over the special session late this afternoon, said that the assembly's first step will be to give "ample moral support" to the U. S. cease-fire resolution which Britain and France vetoed in the Security Council.

SHIPS OF the U. S. Atlantic fleet's Killer Group No. 2, including the aircraft carrier Antietam (shown taking on fuel in Korean waters in February, 1953), have been ordered to break off a visit to the Netherlands and sail for a secret destination. Because of the Middle East crisis there was speculation that the ships will join units of the U. S. Sixth fleet now in the eastern Mediterranean.

Stevenson Presses Theme: Ike Policies Breeding War

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson will be heard tonight in a nationwide television-radio talk on his theme that Eisenhower administration policies "have brought the whole world to the brink of war."

The Democratic standard-bearer called off political talks scheduled for Syracuse and Rochester, N. Y. ,but planned to go ahead with a speech set for 9:30 p. m. at a rally in Buffalo.

He intends to fly to Buffalo after delivering the speech here.

The hostilities in Egypt virtually crowded out all other issues in Stevenson's strategy as he entered the final stage of a campaign as he seized the initiative on the "peace issue."

Stevenson's campaign staff awaited word from the major television and radio networks on his request for free time to reply to President Eisenhower's 15-minute talk Wednesday night on the crisis in the Middle East. Eisenhower spoke from Washington at 7 p. m. (EST) and Stevenson would like to go on the air at approximately the same time.

* * *

THE ANNOUNCEMENT indicated that Stevenson will make his TV reply to Eisenhower even if the Democratic party should have to pay for the time.

Wednesday night he asked a tumultuous audience in Pittsburgh's Hunt Armory to support "efforts to end the war between Egypt and Israel" but said "I cannot promise to support or respect a foreign policy that has bluffed and blundered the United States into a shattering diplomatic disaster."

"It has brought the whole world to the brink of another war that Mr. Dulles (secretary of state) may not have planned but which he did a lot to cause," he said.

An audience which fire department officials estimated at 12,500 gave him a roaring reception.

3 American Scientists Get Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1956 Nobel prize in physics was awarded to three U. S. scientists today for their development of the tiny transistor.

The winners, who did their work in the laboratories of the Bell Telephone Co., are William Shockley of Pasadena, Calif., Jay Bardeen of Urbana, Ill., and Walter H. Brattain of Murray Hill, N. J.

The $38,633 physics award, to be split three ways among the winners, recognized the swift advance of science and technology into the vast new field of physics of the solid states.

It was known that the transistor team had been figuring high among the Nobel physics prize candidates for several years. They had long ago been declared prizeworthy by Nobel experts.

The micro-amplifiers, known as transistors, perform virtually every function of vacuum tubes in electronics and communications but need only a fraction of the current and space of the old vacuum devices. They can be made of various semiconductor solids. Transistors work by directing the flow of electric current through "holes" in the crystals.

A Russian and an Englishman won the 1956 Nobel prize in chemistry jointly for discovering the rules of conduct when molecules blow up in chain reactions or combine smoothly.

Their work laid the foundation for the development of plastics and was a factor in later atomic research.

The winner of the first Nobel award ever given to a Soviet citizen is Nikolai N. Semyonov, bearded 60-year-old Moscow professor of physical chemistry and the organizer of much of Russia's chemical science.

Sharing the $38,633 award is Sir Cyril Hinshelwood, 59, of Oxford University. He and Semyonov worked independently, but have been friends and correspondents for some 25 years.

Cleveland Sees City Newsmen Start Strike

CLEVELAND (AP)—Pickets from the American Newspaper Guild marched today outside the Cleveland Press building in the first strike ever staged by the guild here.

The pickets took their stations at midnight when an old contract ran out with negotiators unable to agree on a new one to replace it.

Wages were the main issue. The existing reporter minimum here is $122.50 per week.

Guild units at the Press and at the city's other two dailies, the Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Cleveland News, have pared demands to a boost of from $9 to $12.50 in a two-year contract.

Management of the Press offered an increase from $8 to $10.50.

The guild contracts with the News and Plain Dealer also expired at midnight. But the guildsmen at those newspapers have not taken a strike vote.

Members of the Cleveland Typographical Union (printers) scheduled to start work at 12:15 a. m. refused to cross the picket line and did not report for work.

Benson Says Farm Price Dip 'Slight'

CHICAGO (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson has claimed growing support by farmers of the Eisenhower administration's farm program, and says a reported drop in farm prices during September was "slight."

Benson said that in all 15 states he visited on a campaign tour he found more farmers favoring President Eisenhower's policies than in previous tours.

Asked to explain his department's announcement of a drop in September farm prices, Benson said the decline was "much less than I anticipated." He said the drop was due to a seasonal market and is an annual occurrance.

Dr. Charles Holzer Dies In Gallipolis

GALLIPOLIS (AP)—Dr. Charles E. Holzer, a colorful figure in the Ohio Valley for nearly half a century, died today at 69.

He had been a patient at Holzer Hospital, which he founded, since September, 1952.

Dr. Holzer was a pioneer not only in his professional field as a surgeon, but in conservation and other fields of civic endeavor. He was one of the founders of the Ohio Valley Conservation and Flood Control Congress and, with the late author Louis Bromfield, was an early leader in the Friends of the Land.

Court To Review Garage Fund Case

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday agreed to review lower court decisions allowing use of state highway funds to plan a $4½ million parking garage under the statehouse here.

Olen Grandle of Cincinnati, a parking lot operator, appealed the decisions. He contended that highway improvement funds cannot be used for other purposes such as a parking garage because of a constitutional ban.

Australia OKs 'Police Action'

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies told Parliament tonight the British military move against Egypt was a "police action."

He declared it was a proper move, taken in a state of great emergency to keep the armies of Israel and Egypt apart and thus permit mediation.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports it paid Ohio farmers $3,874,139 through Oct. 26 for participating in the new soil bank program.

Federal Agents Checking On Narcotics Theft

Federal narcotics agents were expected here shortly to investigate the theft of a "large quantity" of drugs from Bingman's Drug Store on W. Main St.

The burglary was discovered early this morning. Entry was through two doors in the rear of the building, the lock on one door being broken during the breakin and the other door being pried open.

Investigators already on the scene pointed out it would be difficult to put even a rough estimate on the value of the missing drugs, all of them of the morphine group. In the hands of those participating in drug traffic, it was explained, the narcotics could be "cut" and otherwise handled to represent "thousands of dollars worth".

City police indicated they have no worthwhile clues to aid the investigation at this stage.

The thief, or thieves, apparently had the interior of the drug store thoroughly "cased" prior to the burglary. Only the morphine supply was looted.

Greyhound Bus Line Plagued By Walkout

CLEVELAND (AP)—Work stoppages disrupted Eastern Greyhound bus service in some sections of the northeastern quarter of the nation today as contract negotiations continued.

A company spokesman said the stoppages were unauthorized. He said no official strike notice had been given by the Street Railway and Motor Coach Employes union, but that in some areas drivers were unloading their passengers at terminals and awaiting news of the negotiations before continuing their runs.

He said service was reported normal at Buffalo and Washington, D. C., but that no buses had left Cleveland since 1 a. m.

Company and union representatives, still in session after talking past a midnight strike deadline, indicated there were prospects of a settlement.

The company spokesman said he could not estimate the number idled by the scattered work stoppages. He said there was no picketing but that the idle employes were "hanging around" the terminals.

An all-out strike would idle some 4,000 persons.

Main issues to be settled are the union's demand for a 30-cent hourly pay boost spread over two years, six paid holidays, increased minimum guarantees and pay for waiting and delay time.

The current scale for hourly rated employes is from $1.46 to $2.51.

MIDDLETOWN (AP) — Jack Condron, 31, of suburban Norwood, died today of injuries suffered when he was thrown out of a car on U.S. 42 near Lebanon Wednesday night.

Ike Says Nation Puts Faith In U. N. To Solve New Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, having ruled out use of U. S. armed forces in the present Middle East fighting, looked to the United Nations today to find a way of solving "this tormenting problem."

"In the past," the President said in a radio-TV broadcast to the nation Wednesday night, "the United Nations has proved able to find a way to end bloodshed. We believe it can and will do so again."

He said the United States would "do all in its power to localize the fighting and to end the conflict." He did not suggest specific steps.

In the talk which the White House termed "nonpolitical," Eisenhower said the United States will avoid "involvement" in the present Middle East fighting.

Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said that at the time Eisenhower went on the air he had not seen a telegram from Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for President, expressing hope "that you will not commit us to any precipitate military action."

Eisenhower said the U. N. General Assembly should be able to bring "the opinion of the world" to bear on the situation created by Israel's attack on Egypt and British-French intervention.

He chided Britain, France and Israel but added that all had been provoked by Egyptian actions.

He said he has no plan to call a special session of Congress. But promised to maintain close contact with congressional leaders.

A few hours before Eisenhower spoke, the State Department banned travel by U. S. citizens into Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria except where a trip is determined to be in this country's "best interests."

The department announced also that 1,888 Americans had been evacuated from the same four countries by late Wednesday afternoon, and that by its count 4,878 Americans remained. It said the Air Force and units of the 6th Fleet are aiding in the evacuation.

The Martime Administration, meanwhile, advised all U. S. merchant ships to avoid the Suez Canal area until the Middle East situation is clarified.

Eisenhower described the tangled situation in his speech, and then said: "In the circumstances I have described, there will be no United States involvement in these present hostilities."

Eisenhower declared that the Israeli, British and French decisions to attack Egypt were decisions "taken in error."

Eden Facing Censure Vote

British Chief Pounded By Criticism At Home

LONDON (AP) — The British-French attack on Egypt today brought down on the handsome gray head of Sir Anthony Eden the greatest storm of his three decades in politics.

In the House of Commons tonight the prime minister faces a motion of censure deploring the government's resort to armed force and requiring his resignation if the motion was approved.

Eden's conservative party has an over-all majority of 60 votes, making defeat for the government unlikely, but even in the ranks of Eden's own followers there were reported to be misgivings over his handling of the Suez affair.

The Daily Express which supports Eden's policy, predicted there would be "at least one resignation from the government" as a result of the action against Egypt.

Writers in some newspapers suggested British public opinion has never been so divided at a time of war since the days of the American Revolution.

Sen. George Fears NATO Doomed

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga) fears the use of military force by Britain and France against Egypt is a "death blow" to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

George, who is President Eisenhower's special representative to NATO, said:

"The Israelis started the present trouble because they were encouraged to do so by both England and France. It may be that Russia's preoccupation with revolt in her satellite nations may have convinced the anti-Communists it was a good time to act."

Russian Troops Clear Out Of Budapest, But Stay Near

VIENNA (AP) — Battered Budapest was virtually free of Soviet troops today, but the Russians were reported forming a cordon around the Hungarian capital.

Resentment mounted in Budapest against Communist Premier Imre Nagy's regime.

Budapest radio said Nagy's government had sent Moscow a note demanding that Soviet delegates be named to confer with Hungarian officials on complete withdrawal of Russian troops from the whole country.

Despite this announcement and Nagy's promise of free elections and other reforms, demonstrations grew against his regime. Nagy himself did not take over until after the rebellion started.

"Out with the government of murderers" shouted a crowd of 2,000 demonstrators in Kossuth Square outside Parliament.

Hungarian troops bolstered by armed civilians were seen camped on the outskirts of Budapest. It was believed they were trying to prevent the escape of prominent Communists and members of the hated Hungarian secret police.

STREET FIGHTING was reported still going on Wednesday night between the victorious rebels and members of the state police near Budapest's southern railroad station. Secret police officials also were hunted down in other parts of the city and their bodies burned in the streets.

At one square a mob of teenagers drenched the bodies of about 40 policemen in gasoline and set them afire.

Prague radio said a move was afoot to make Josef Cardinal Mindszenty Hungarian premier, but there was no confirmation.

Cardinal Mindszenty declined to comment, saying he would hold a news conference Friday.

Meter Reader Facing Death Trial In Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP)—A 43-year-old water meter reader goes on trial here today on a charge that he stabbed an attractive 34-year-old Cincinnati socialite to death in her swank home last April 11.

It is a case which for 45 days seemed to have been a "perfect crime."

There was no known motive for the slaying of Mrs. Audrey Evers Pugh. She had no enemies that police could find. Numerous suspects were questioned and then on May 26 came the announcement from police that:

"The meter reader did it."

The meter reader, Robert V. Lyons, had been questioned previously in the case and released.

Police said Lyons admitted the slaying and said he did it after Mrs. Pugh reprimanded him for coming to the wrong door of her home. His statement quoted her as saying, "Don't make a fool of yourself."

Egyptian Air Field Battered By Warplanes

Israel Claims Enemy Being Bottled Up In Sinai Desert Fighting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

British and French planes carried on nonstop attacks on Egyptian airfields today and Cairo announced attacking aircraft sank an Egyptian warship in the Suez Canal—blocking traffic and cutting off oil shipping to Europe.

Cairo said British and French warplanes raided Egyptian troops at crossing points along the canal and in the operation sank the Egyptian warship Akka in Timsah Lake just south of Ismailia, midway point of the Canal.

Britain and France launched military operations against President Nasser's regime Wednesday night with the declared purpose of protecting the waterway from fighting swirling between Egyptian and Israeli forces in the Sinai Desert.

The Egyptian statement said:

"Britain and France stopped navigation in the canal by their action at a time when they claimed they were protecting navigation in the canal.

"Air raids continued throughout the day on our air fields at Alexandria, Cairo and in the Suez Canal zone."

IN A FIGHTING speech to his people, Nasser promised "we will fight from village to village, from place to place," until Egypt wins victory.

In a 20-minute broadcast, Nasser pledged he would fight "to the last drop of my blood" to secure Egyptian independence.

"Every one of you is a soldier," he declared. "Arms have been distributed to every one able to carry them. We shall fight hard. We shall never give up. We shall be victorious."

The Egyptians gave out no official information today on the fighting with Israeli troops. But the Israelis claimed Egyptian troops were in retreat and would soon be cut off in Sinai.

Even before Egypt announced blocking of the canal, shipping was reported turning back from its approaches because of danger from military operations.

An Egyptian government broadcast appealed to the Arabs, whose oil powers much of Western Europe's economy, to stop the flow of oil to the British and French "even if it means blowing up all the pipelines in the Middle East." The lines pass through Lebanon and Syria, both allies of Egypt.

Egypt broke off diplomatic relations with Britain and France. Jordan broke relations with France and informed Britain that it would not allow Jordanian airports or

Government Suing Convicted Solon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Rep. Ernest K. Bramblett (R-Calif) was sued by the government Wednesday for $71,724 for padding his payrolls during his tenure in the House.

Bramblett was convicted in 1955 of diverting pubic funds to his own use. He served in Congress from 1945 to 1953.

U. S. Atty. Laughlin Waters said the amount diverted was $35,408. The remainder asked was for damages.

Bramblett was accused specifically of setting up a dummy staff of four clerks and collecting money for their salaries. He was given a one-year suspended sentence and fined $5,000.

The 4th Army announced it would present the medal Friday to the 113-year-old former forager for Hood's Texas Brigade. He is one of three survivors of the war.

The 84th Congress authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to strike suitable medals in honor of the last surviving veterans of the Civil War.

Special Legislature Session Called To Outlaw Strikes Against Utilities

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche has called a special session of the Ohio Legislature for Nov. 9 to outlaw public utility strikes and require arbitration of grievances.

He called the session after a conference Wednesday aimed at ending the 110-day strike against Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. and providing emergency service to the Portsmouth area.

Republican leaders were quick to criticize the five-term Democratic governor for the action.

State Rep. Roger Cloud (R-Logan), speaker of the Ohio House, said he could not "see the wisdom of a special session." He said the governor has authority to maintain law and order and could move the Ohio National Guard to the Portsmouth area "without invitation from anyone."

Cloud said he had not talked to the governor and did not know what legislation Lausche had in mind. He added, however, that a Wisconsin law banning strikes against public utilities was declared unconstitutional by the U. S. Supreme Court in 1951.

The governor's opponent in his race for the U. S. Senate, Sen. George H. Bender, said Lausche's action in calling the session was a "direct confession of failure."

"Gov. Lausche has given this strike only the same kind of half-hearted, lackadaisical treatment which he has brought to other problems affecting our state," Bender declared.

The Portsmouth Voluntary Citizens Committee for Law Enforcement asked the governor for the special session when it became apparent the company would not provide emergency service.

The company says it will resume service when what it calls "law and order" is an established fact in the Portsmouth area. That area has been without telephone service three times since the strike began last July 15. The latest shutdown began Oct. 16 after the company's exchanges there were stoned.

Paul E. Flohr, co-chairman of the citizens committee, said the group always thought there could be a compromise on the strike and "we will not be pushed into asking for the National Guard."

Lausche emphasized that legislation he will ask the special session to consider "will not at all deal with private industry, but will deal with public utilities."

"We think," Flohr said at the conference, "an effort should be made to provide emergency service with local supervisory personnel insofar as possible. If that fails we won't be hesitant to ask for the National Guard."

Robert Moulton, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, said there will be a public hearing on whether the company should be ordered to provide emergency service.

Col. George Mingle, superintendent of the state highway patrol, told the conference his investigations showed that "if outside people hadn't been manning the exchanges, there wouldn't have been any disturbances."

Mingle apparently was referring to union statements that the company had brought in employes of General Telephone Co. of Ohio to work the struck exchanges. General Telephone is Ohio Consolidated's parent company.

Union- management negotiations are scheduled to resume Friday in Cleveland. Of 16 issues which have deadlocked the talks, four are considered most serious: union shop, supervisors as union members, a "no strike" clause and arbitration of grievances.

Soil Fund Grows

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports it paid Ohio farmers $3,874,139 through Oct. 26 for participating in the new soil bank program.

Federal Agents Checking On Narcotics Theft

Federal narcotics agents were expected here shortly to investigate the theft of a "large quantity" of drugs from Bingman's Drug Store on W. Main St.

The burglary was discovered early this morning. Entry was through two doors in the rear of the building, the lock on one door being broken during the breakin and the other door being pried open.

Investigators already on the scene pointed out it would be difficult to put even a rough estimate on the value of the missing drugs, all of them of the morphine group. In the hands of those participating in drug traffic, it was explained, the narcotics could be "cut" and otherwise handled to represent "thousands of dollars worth".

City police indicated they have no worthwhile clues to aid the investigation at this stage.

The thief, or thieves, apparently had the interior of the drug store thoroughly "cased" prior to the burglary. Only the morphine supply was looted.

Greyhound Bus Line Plagued By Walkout

CLEVELAND (AP)—Work stoppages disrupted Eastern Greyhound bus service in some sections of the northeastern quarter of the nation today as contract negotiations continued.

A company spokesman said the stoppages were unauthorized. He said no official strike notice had been given by the Street Railway and Motor Coach Employes union, but that in some areas drivers were unloading their passengers at terminals and awaiting news of the negotiations before continuing their runs.

He said service was reported normal at Buffalo and Washington, D. C., but that no buses had left Cleveland since 1 a. m.

Company and union representatives, still in session after talking past a midnight strike deadline, indicated there were prospects of a settlement.

The company spokesman said he could not estimate the number idled by the scattered work stoppages. He said there was no picketing but that the idle employes were "hanging around" the terminals.

An all-out strike would idle some 4,000 persons.

Main issues to be settled are the union's demand for a 30-cent hourly pay boost spread over two years, six paid holidays, increased minimum guarantees and pay for waiting and delay time.

The current scale for hourly rated employes is from $1.46 to $2.51.

Injuries Fatal

MIDDLETOWN (AP) — Jack Condron, 31, of suburban Norwood, died today of injuries suffered when he was thrown out of a car on U.S. 42 near Lebanon Wednesday night.

Ike Says Nation Puts Faith In U. N. To Solve New Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, having ruled out use of U. S. armed forces in the present Middle East fighting, looked to the United Nations today to find a way of solving "this tormenting problem."

"In the past," the President said in a radio-TV broadcast to the nation Wednesday night, "the United Nations has proved able to find a way to end bloodshed. We believe it can and will do so again."

He said the United States would "do all in its power to localize the fighting and to end the conflict." He did not suggest specific steps.

In the talk which the White House termed "nonpolitical," Eisenhower said the United States will avoid "involvement" in the present Middle East fighting.

Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said that at the time Eisenhower went on the air he had not seen a telegram from Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for President, expressing hope "that you will not commit us to any precipitate military action."

Eisenhower said the U. N. General Assembly should be able to bring "the opinion of the world" to bear on the situation created by Israel's attack on Egypt and British-French intervention.

He chided Britain, France and Israel but added that all had been provoked by Egyptian actions.

He said he has no plan to call a special session of Congress. But promised to maintain close contact with congressional leaders.

A few hours before Eisenhower spoke, the State Department banned travel by U. S. citizens into Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria except where a trip is determined to be in this country's "best interests."

The department announced also that 1,888 Americans had been evacuated from the same four countries by late Wednesday afternoon, and that by its count 4,878 Americans remained. It said the Air Force and units of the 6th Fleet are aiding in the evacuation.

The Martime Administration, meanwhile, advised all U. S. merchant ships to avoid the Suez Canal area until the Middle East situation is clarified.

Eisenhower described the tangled situation in his speech, and then said: "In the circumstances I have described, there will be no United States involvement in these present hostitilites."

Eisenhower declared that the Israeli, British and French decisions to attack Egypt were decisions "taken in error."

Egyptian Air Field Battered By Warplanes

Israel Claims Enemy Being Bottled Up In Sinai Desert Fighting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

British and French planes carried on nonstop attacks on Egyptian airfields today and Cairo announced attacking aircraft sank an Egyptian warship in the Suez Canal—blocking traffic and cutting off oil shipping to Europe.

Cairo said British and French warplanes raided Egyptian troops at crossing points along the canal and in the operation sank the Egyptian warship Akka in Timsah Lake just south of Ismailia, midway point of the Canal.

Britain and France launched military operations against President Nasser's regime Wednesday night with the declared purpose of protecting the waterway from fighting swirling between Egyptian and Israeli forces in the Sinai Desert.

The Egyptian statement said:

"Britain and France stopped navigation in the canal by their action at a time when they claimed they were protecting navigation in the canal.

"Air raids continued throughout the day on our air fields at Alexandria, Cairo and in the Suez Canal zone."

IN A FIGHTING speech to his people, Nasser promised "we will fight from village to village, from place to place," until Egypt wins victory.

In a 20-minute broadcast, Nasser pledged he would fight "to the last drop of my blood" to secure Egyptian independence.

"Every one of you is a soldier," he declared. "Arms have been distributed to every one able to carry them. We shall fight hard. We shall never give up. We shall be victorious."

The Egyptians gave out no official information today on the fighting with Israeli troops. But the Israelis claimed Egyptian troops were in retreat and would soon be cut off in Sinai.

Even before Egypt announced blocking of the canal, shipping was reported turning back from its approaches because of danger from military operations.

An Egyptian government broadcast appealed to the Arabs, whose oil powers much of Western Europe's economy, to stop the flow of oil to the British and French "even if it means blowing up all the pipelines in the Middle East." The lines pass through Lebanon and Syria, both allies of Egypt.

Egypt broke off diplomatic relations with Britain and France. Jordan broke relations with France and informed Britain that it would not allow Jordanian airports or

Eden Facing Censure Vote

British Chief Pounded By Criticism At Home

LONDON (AP) — The British-French attack on Egypt today brought down on the handsome gray head of Sir Anthony Eden the greatest storm of his three decades in politics.

In the House of Commons tonight the prime minister faces a motion of censure deploring the government's resort to armed force and requiring his resignation if the motion was approved.

Eden's conservative party has an over-all majority of 60 votes, making defeat for the government unlikely, but even in the ranks of Eden's own followers there were reported to be misgivings over his handling of the Suez affair.

The Daily Express which supports Eden's policy, predicted there would be "at least one resignation from the government" as a result of the action against Egypt.

Writers in some newspapers suggested British public opinion has never been so divided at a time of war since the days of the American Revolution.

Sen. George Fears NATO Doomed

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga) fears the use of military force by Britain and France against Egypt is a "death blow" to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

George, who is President Eisenhower's special representative to NATO, said:

"The Israelis started the present trouble because they were encouraged to do so by both England and France. It may be that Russia's preoccupation with revolt in her satellite nations may have convinced the anti-Communists it was a good time to act."

Russian Troops Clear Out Of Budapest, But Stay Near

VIENNA (AP) — Battered Budapest was virtually free of Soviet troops today, but the Russians were reported forming a cordon around the Hungarian capital.

Resentment mounted in Budapest against Communist Premier Imre Nagy's regime.

Budapest radio said Nagy's government had sent Moscow a note demanding that Soviet delegates be named to confer with Hungarian officials on complete withdrawal of Russian troops from the whole country.

Despite this announcement and Nagy's promise of free elections and other reforms, demonstrations grew against his regime. Nagy himself did not take over until after the rebellion started.

"Out with the government of murderers" shouted a crowd of 2,000 demonstrators in Kossuth Square outside Parliament.

Hungarian troops bolstered by armed civilians were seen camped on the outskirts of Budapest. It was believed they were trying to prevent the escape of prominent Communists and members of the hated Hungarian secret police.

* * *

STREET FIGHTING was reported still going on Wednesday night between the victorious rebels and members of the state police near Budapest's southern railroad station. Secret police officials also were hunted down in other parts of the city and their bodies burned in the streets.

At one square a mob of teenagers drenched the bodies of about 40 policemen in gasoline and set them afire.

Prague radio said a move was afoot to make Josef Cardinal Mindszenty Hungarian premier, but there was no confirmation.

Cardinal Mindszenty declined to comment, saying he would hold a news conference Friday.

Meter Reader Facing Death Trial In Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP)—A 43-year-old water meter reader goes on trial here today on a charge that he stabbed an attractive 34-year-old Cincinnati socialite to death in her swank home last April 11.

It is a case which for 45 days seemed to have been a "perfect crime."

There was no known motive for the slaying of Mrs. Audrey Evers Pugh. She had no enemies that police could find. Numerous suspects were questioned and then on May 26 came the announcement from police that:

"The meter reader did it."

The meter reader, Robert V. Lyons, had been questioned previously in the case and released.

Police said Lyons admitted the slaying and said he did it after Mrs. Pugh reprimanded him for coming to the wrong door of her home. His statement quoted her as saying, "Don't make a fool of yourself."

Government Suing Convicted Solon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Rep. Ernest K. Bramblett (R-Calif) was sued by the government Wednesday for $71,724 for padding his payrolls during his tenure in the House.

Bramblett was convicted in 1955 of diverting pubic funds to his own use. He served in Congress from 1945 to 1953.

U. S. Atty. Laughlin Waters said the amount diverted was $35,408. The remainder asked was for damages.

Bramblett was accused specifically of setting up a dummy staff of four clerks and collecting money for their salaries. He was given a one-year suspended sentence and fined $5,000.

Confederate Vet To Get Union Medal

The 4th Army announced it would present the medal Friday to the 113-year-old former forager for Hood's Texas Brigade. He is one of three survivors of the war.

The 84th Congress authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to strike suitable medals in honor of the last surviving veterans of the Civil War.

DROODLES

By ROGER PRICE

"UNION CARD FOR A DONUT BAKER"

Nobody can say this Droodle isn't topical, because we're now in the middle of National Donut Week. At least I am and if your calendar is slow or you'd rather dunk an Eclaire, then you have my permission to use any of the following titles. 1. DOLLAR BILL BEFORE ENTERING THE MINT. 2. CHECK ENDORSED BY ANNIE OAKLEY. 3. A WINDOW WITH A PORTHOLE. 4. FULL MOON AS SEEN IN A REAR VIEW MIRROR. 5. SIDE VIEW OF A SWISS MARSHMALLOW. 6. BRICK FOR AN AIR CONDITIONED BUILDING. 7. EGG FRIED BY A DRAFTSMAN. 8. A BUMPSA WITH AN EXTRA DAISY. I could go on and on with these titles but I seem to have run out of space. And nerve.

Special Legislature Session Called To Outlaw Strikes Against Utilities

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche has called a special session of the Ohio Legislature for Nov. 9 to outlaw public utility strikes and require arbitration of grievances.

He called the session after a conference Wednesday aimed at ending the 110-day strike against Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. and providing emergency service to the Portsmouth area.

Republican leaders were quick to criticize the five-term Democratic governor for the action.

State Rep. Roger Cloud (R-Logan), speaker of the Ohio House, said he could not "see the wisdom of a special session." He said the governor has authority to maintain law and order and could move the Ohio National Guard to the Portsmouth area "without invitation from anyone."

Cloud said he had not talked to the governor and did not know what legislation Lausche had in mind. He added, however, that a Wisconsin law banning strikes against public utilities was declared unconstitutional by the U. S. Supreme Court in 1951.

The governor's opponent in his race for the U. S. Senate, Sen. George H. Bender, said Lausche's action in calling the session was a "direct confession of failure."

"Gov. Lausche has given this strike only the same kind of halfhearted, lackadaisical treatment which he has brought to other problems affecting our state," Bender declared.

The Portsmouth Voluntary Citizens Committee for Law Enforcement asked the governor for the special session when it became apparent the company would not provide emergency service.

The company says it will resume service when what it calls "law and order" is an established fact in the Portsmouth area. That area has been without telephone service three times since the strike began last July 15. The latest shutdown began Oct. 16 after the company's exchanges there were stoned.

Paul E. Flohr, co-chairman of the citizens committee, said the group always thought there could be a compromise on the strike and "we will not be pushed into asking for the National Guard."

Lausche emphasized that legislation he will ask the special session to consider "will not at all deal with private industry, but will deal with public utilities."

"We think," Flohr said at the conference, "an effort should be made to provide emergency service with local supervisory personnel insofar as possible. If that fails we won't be hesitant to ask for the National Guard."

Robert Moulton, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, said there will be a public hearing on whether the company should be ordered to provide emergency service.

Col. George Mingle, superintendent of the state highway patrol, told the conference his investigations showed that "if outside people hadn't been manning the exchanges, there wouldn't have been any disturbances."

Mingle apparently was referring to union statements that the company had brought in employes of General Telephone Co. of Ohio to work the struck exchanges. General Telephone is Ohio Consolidated's parent company.

Union- management negotiations are scheduled to resume Friday in Cleveland. Of 16 issues which have deadlocked the talks, four are considered most serious: union shop, supervisors as union members, a "no strike" clause and arbitration of grievances.

October Ends .94 Inch Short In Rainfall Data

During the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today, Circleville and vicinity had .17 inch of rainfall —but it still left October short in the precipitation figures.

Last night's rain was the first of any consequence here in about a week, and it only boosted the month's accumulation to 1.48 inch. October's normal accumulation for this area is 2.42 inches. That means last month ended close to an inch — .94 — short of what it should have had.

Despite the deficit for October locally, this year was still running well ahead of normal. The local margin of surplus since January 1 is nearly five inches.

October last year ended with approximately one-third inch of surplus in this area.

To permit a more accurate picture of the November rainfall for this area, The Herald's rainfall "score" will be suspended until the latter part of next week. Rainfall charts need a period of several days to show a true trend.

School Levies In County Up For Approval

Pickaway County Schools Superintendent George McDowell today reminded voters outside Circleville that several school levies will be on the ballot at next Tuesday's election.

All are for current operating expenses, and proposed by local school districts. McDowell listed the levies as follows:

Commercial Pt. Man Killed In Rt. 104 Crash

Jessie Thrasher, 49, Commercial Point, was killed Wednesday at approximately 8:45 p. m. when his car went out of control on Route 104 just north of the Pickaway-Franklin county line.

The victim died of a fractured skull, broken neck and crushed chest.

He was dead when State Patrolman R. L. Worman arrived at the scene.

Tire marks on the highway indicated Thrasher's auto, traveling south, went off to the right of the road, then crossed back to the left side where it crashed through a fence and turned over. There were no passengers in the car.

Investigation of the accident revealed that the car traveled about 600 feet from the point where it first went off the highway.

The automobile was demolished.

The bonus proposal will be placed before the voters in next Tuesday's elections, and the local Legion post has already distributed posters asking for its approval.

"It is practically the same as the bonus granted veterans of World War II.

"It is our sincere hope, that all people—especially the veterans of the two world wars, along with the Korean veterans—will vote for this issue next Tuesday. We owe this bonus to the Korean veterans, so let's get it for them!"

Egyptian Air Field Battered By Warplanes

Jordanian soil to be used under any circumstances as bases for attack against Egypt or any other Arab state.

* * *

IRAQ ORDERED full mobilization of its armed forces in readiness for any Israeli attack on Jordan.

Cairo dispatches said five air raid alarms sounded in Cairo up to early afternoon, and Egyptian military headquarters claimed six British planes were shot down over the Nile delta.

Troops of the two Western nations had not shown up in the area of operations, but their landing on Egyptian soil was expected.

British planes with cannon and rocket fire were reported to be striking hard at five Egyptian airfields in the Suez zone and Nile delta in an effort to destroy Nasser's Soviet-built MIG air force on the ground.

British pilots said they had destroyed 14 Egyptian planes on the ground, including Soviet MIG15 fighters. The pilots said they had encountered almost no resistance.

It was limited, they said, to ineffective antiaircraft fire and a lone fighter which attempted to intervene.

The air strikes, beginning at dawn after a night of British and French bombing attacks, were aimed at the airfields of Abu Sueir, Fayid and Kabrit in the canal zone, Inchass, 35 miles from Cairo, and Kasfareet.

October Ends .94 Inch Short In Rainfall Data

During the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today, Circleville and vicinity had .17 inch of rainfall —but it still left October short in the precipitation figures.

Last night's rain was the first of any consequence here in about a week, and it only boosted the month's accumulation to 1.48 inch. October's normal accumulation for this area is 2.42 inches. That means last month ended close to an inch — .94 — short of what it should have had.

Despite the deficit for October locally, this year was still running well ahead of normal. The local margin of surplus since January 1 is nearly five inches.

October last year ended with approximately one-third inch of surplus in this area.

To permit a more accurate picture of the November rainfall for this area, The Herald's rainfall "score" will be suspended until the latter part of next week. Rainfall charts need a period of several days to show a true trend.

Commercial Pt. Man Killed In Rt. 104 Crash

Jessie Thrasher, 49, Commercial Point, was killed Wednesday at approximately 8:45 p. m. when his car went out of control on Route 104 just north of the Pickaway-Franklin county line.

The victim died of a fractured skull, broken neck and crushed chest.

He was dead when State Patrolman R. L. Worman arrived at the scene.

Tire marks on the highway indicated Thrasher's auto, traveling south, went off to the right of the road, then crossed back to the left side where it crashed through a fence and turned over. There were no passengers in the car.

Investigation of the accident revealed that the car traveled about 600 feet from the point where it first went off the highway.

The automobile was demolished.

Voters Urged To OK Bonus

Commander Wayne R. Moon of Hall-Adkins American Legion Post, 134, today urged strong public support behind the bonus proposed for veterans of the Korean conflict.

The bonus proposal will be placed before the voters in next Tuesday's elections, and the local Legion post has already distributed posters asking for its approval.

"The Korean bonus," Moon said, "is a very important issue. It is a bonus for all veterans who served during the Korean conflict, whether they were actually in the Korean area or not.

"It is practically the same as the bonus granted veterans of World War II.

"It is our sincere hope, that all people—especially the veterans of the two world wars, along with the Korean veterans—will vote for this issue next Tuesday. We owe this bonus to the Korean veterans, so let's get it for them!"

Ike Hints Reply To Adlai's Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, reportedly planning new jabs at Adlai E. Stevenson, returns to the campaign platform tonight in Philadelphia for further discussion of the Middle East.

In a television-radio address to be carried coast to coast at 9:30 p. m., the President may have something to say about a contention by Stevenson, his Democratic opponent, that "the world is on the brink of war again" because, Stevenson said, Eisenhower's "foreign policies in the Middle East have been disastrous."

Stevenson contends that the Eisenhower administration "bears heavy responsibility" for the situation.

Egyptian Air Field Battered By Warplanes

Jordanian soil to be used under any circumstances as bases for attack against Egypt or any other Arab state.

* * *

IRAQ ORDERED full mobilization of its armed forces in readiness for any Israeli attack on Jordan.

Cairo dispatches said five air raid alarms sounded in Cairo up to early afternoon, and Egyptian military headquarters claimed six British planes were shot down over the Nile delta.

Troops of the two Western nations had not shown up in the area of operations, but their landing on Egyptian soil was expected.

British planes with cannon and rocket fire were reported to be striking hard at five Egyptian airfields in the Suez zone and Nile delta in an effort to destroy Nasser's Soviet-built MIG air force on the ground.

British pilots said they had destroyed 14 Egyptian planes on the ground, including Soviet MIG15 fighters. The pilots said they had encountered almost no resistance.

It was limited, they said, to ineffective antiaircraft fire and a lone fighter which attempted to intervene.

The air strikes, beginning at dawn after a night of British and French bombing attacks, were aimed at the airfields of Abu Sueir, Fayid and Kabrit in the canal zone, Inchass, 35 miles from Cairo, and Kasfareet.

THE DAY U. S. VOTES

VOTERS of the U. S. cast ballots for 435 Representatives and 32 Senators—the latter figure usually augmented somewhat, as in Kentucky this year, to fill vacancies — the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November. The national election, however, did not always fall on that day.

Until 1872 each State fixed its own day for voting for Congress. Often it was not the same as presidential election day, set in 1845.

Between those dates, the "October States"—Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana —voted early for their representatives. Their elections were watched as important straws in the wind. Even today Maine, by special exception and an early Winter, votes in September for all offices except presidential electors.

Senatorial elections did not exist until the 17th Amendment became law in 1913. Previously, senators were elected by the State legislatures.

Why does election day fall in November? "Harvesting is over then, and Winter has not yet made the roads impassable," said Alexander Duncan, Whig Representative from Ohio, who wrote the presidential election-day law in 1845.

By a previous law, the date for presidential elections had to be set not more than 34 days before the first Wednesday in December, when the electoral college met — and still meets — every four years. Congress, however, hoped to make it at least 30 days ahead.

It couldn't be the first of November, for businessmen make out accounts on the first. It couldn't fall on Sunday, for unlike Europeans, Americans feel the Sabbath is no day for voting. Monday would leave too little time for traveling to the polls.

Thus the present election day was chosen. It never falls on the first, nor later than November 8. By giving America a national polling day, it eliminated such scandals as "pipe-laying," the practice of sending political gangs across state lines to vote more than once on different election days.

Voting as a citizen's privilege goes back to the ancient Greek city-states. On serious matters such as the exile of a citizen, the Greeks cast pebbles or bits of pottery into urns—the first secret ballots—2,400 years ago.

BEAUTY VS. DANGER

THERE'S beauty in the autumnal dress of the leaves but there's also danger when the leaves fall on highways and streets.

Poets write sonnets and triolets about the riot of color among the oaks and maples, but policemen also write accident reports when cars skid on those same leaves.

Photographers use up reels of film capturing the color of leaves on pavements—but insurance investigators take pictures of accidents that occurred on those same leaf-covered pavements.

In other words, be careful. A street of wet autumn leaves can be as dangerous as a street glazed with ice.

The sun never sets on spots where American helpfulness and charity are being dished out.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Revolutions usually explode spontaneously, although they are planned for decades. It is often so that the planners have little to do with the actual uprising and sometimes, they are able to take hold of the situation and ofttimes, it gets beyond them with an amazing rapidity.

The Russian Revolution of 1917 started as a palace revolt of a pro-Ally group, but the Bolsheviks seized it after nearly eight months and then they reaped all the fruits of the Revolution. Lack of food is one of the most usual causes for the discontent of a people. The Hungarians are a wheat-meat eating nation, accustomed to good cooking and a plentiful supply.

In April 1952, the Moscow Economic Conference was called by the World Peace Council, a Communist group with the object of improving the trade of Communist countries. The Hungarian delegation to this Conference stated that beginning with 1953, Hungary would be able to export 300,000 tons of grain a year to Western countries. This represented about half of Hungary's pre-World War II grain exports.

However, by the end of 1952, the Hungarian government had to admit that the crops had fallen far short of the planned targets. Food exports were slashed, but that did not eliminate the food shortage within Hungary, which once had been regarded as the "bread basket" of Europe.

While subsequent harvests were somewhat better, this year, Hungary was forced to buy grain in Canada. Weather did its part, but also bad management of the collective farms and lack of fertilizer played a considerable role in producing an inadequate productivity. A free people does not function competently under a collective system. At least two generations have to be killed to make a go of collectivism.

A people may be willing to suffer austerity for their own nation, but surely not for an alien conqueror. And the Russians are aliens, so far as the Hungarians are concerned. Centuries ago, when the Magyars settled in their Danubian land, they separated the East Slavs from the West Slavs the North Slavs from the South Slavs.

Then they were required by the course of events to decide whether they would choose the Orthodox Church of the East or the Roman Catholic Church of the West. They chose Rome, largely because they feared the East.

Although Hungary and Poland have been related and even at one time united by marriage, there is no record from the beginning of the Magyar invasion of Europe until the Communist conquest of their country by Stalin of the Hungarians ever turning eastward for their culture, their religion or any other phase of their lives. For Hungary culturally associated itself with Western Europe. It is therefore not astonishing that the Hungarian revolt should be so violent and so positively anti-Russian.

Poland, on the other hand, includes numerous Russian elements, remnants not only of Czarist days when Poland was part of the Russian Empire, but also from earlier times when Poland ruled over parts of what is now Russia. Also the languages of Russia and Poland are cognate, in the Slavic group. While the Poles are Roman Catholic, some of the related peoples on the borders are Orthodox as are still many of the inhabitants of Russia.

Polish intellectuals, while nationalistic, have a history of association with Russian revolutionists in the Czarist days, and many of them have long been Marxists. I make this point only to emphasize one difference between Hungary and Poland in the present situation.

CHAPTER 16

I HASTILY withdrew into the closet when I saw Mr. Bell and Miss Webb kissing.

I tried to make myself as comfortable as possible. It looked as though I might be here for some time. It was all right for them. You can live on love. But me, I was without food or water.

"Darling," I heard Leone gasp, "it's so horrible, happening now, now when everything was going to be so perfect for us."

"I know, my dear," Bell cooed. "I know."

"Can't we go through with it anyhow, just the way we planned, no matter what happens? No one need find out."

"But they would find out, my angel. The papers would get hold of it, those infernal columnists."

"What if they did? I wouldn't care."

"But how would it look, Leone, think of appearances. This ghastly business about Anita, my school involved. And you and I running off to be married in the middle of it all. It would seem so very callous."

"Yes, of course you're right, Oliver. As usual. But can't you come home with me? Now, I mean. My lovely apartment's there, waiting for us."

"Please," Bell pleaded, "please, Leone. We mustn't risk any gossip." His voice turned playfully, coyly severe. "And I must say, your behavior just now during business hours . . . really, Miss Webb!"

"So sorry, Mr. Bell." Leone was mocking her own efficiency. "We won't let it happen again, will we? Well, just once more. Now, for instance."

"Darling . . ."

After a long moment and some small murmurings, I heard a click and then the sound of a door opening and closing. I opened my door and shot through the darkened conference room. I got my gloves, hat, coat and purse out of my locker. I had a few things, which might or might not mean anything, to report to Steve.

The elevator was so crowded that when its operator implored his passengers to face the front it was all I could do to obey. Then I wished I hadn't. My nose was practically flattened against the back of a young man's neck. As I pulled back my head and my eyes focused, that neck, the ears above it, the set of the shoulders beneath it seemed familiar. I tried to place them. I was trapped too tightly in the now descending car to edge around for a look at the face, so I had to be content to work with what I could see.

Immediately, I eliminated Mr. Bell. Ear-wise, this couldn't be he. Besides, Bell was taller, older. Then I eliminated Bob Spencer. Neck-wise, Bob was frailer, shoulder-wise, too. This young man had an athletic cast to him . . . and then I had it.

This was the young man whose voice I had first heard in Studio J, next heard making a phony excuse to a policeman for his presence at 11 Rhinebeck Place. This was a young man I wanted to know more about.

It soon developed that this was a young man in a hurry. Almost before I knew it I was chasing after him through the chill December night . . . up Madison Avenue, down into an Independent Subway Station, onto an E train bound for Long Island. My maneuvering to keep out of his sight proved unnecessary. He was slouched down in his seat. His hat was pushed so far back off his juvenile, clean-cut face that his crew cut was showing. He was scowling at the floor as though he disapproved of it. He was so engrossed in his own troubles that I could have sat on his lap without his noticing it.

We had a nice, long subway ride together.

He almost missed his stop; he came to just in time. I was lucky to get out between the closing doors. We were in Kew Gardens. I wondered, nervously, what in the world we were doing in Kew Gardens.

He walked rapidly through a business district. I stayed across the street from him. In the middle of the last block of stores, before the terrain went purely residential, was a still lighted stationery-tobacco type shop. He disappeared into it, leaving me with my mouth open, gasping for air. I leaned gratefully against a hobby shop window and waited.

Five minutes later he was still in there. The store had no side exits that he might have used. I was sure that he hadn't known I was following him, so he wouldn't have asked to use the store's rear exit to elude me. I decided I had better investigate. I crossed the street, eased up to the glass door and saw immediately that, except for the chubby, youngish woman behind the counter, the store was empty. My man had gone.

I went into the store. There was a phone booth in the corner; there was no one in it.

"Yes, miss?" The lady's voice was sweet as sugar. "Can I help you?"

"I saw a young fellow come in here a few minutes ago. I thought I recognized him."

"You mean Jack Walston? He's the last person came in."

"Yes! Jack Walston! I haven't seen him for years."

"Not for years, huh? Where'd you know Jack?"

"We . . . we went to school together."

"Really!" The lady was so pleased it made me wish Jack and I had gone to school together.

"Grade or high?"

"Grade."

"I thought it must be grade. Because I don't remember you. You see, Jack and I went to high together, Flushing High. Course he was a few years behind me. He was in my kid sister's class."

"Imagine me seeing Jack again!"

"Yes, after all these years!"

"He was an awful cute kid."

"And still is! Too bad you missed him."

"Where did he go?"

"Out the back way. He just stopped in to pick up the car keys."

"Well, Jack's doing all right! He's got a car now."

"No, he's borrowing my husband's. He's got to go to New Haven tomorrow. Up near New Haven."

"Oh, New Haven."

"That's right. Say, what's your name? You didn't tell me."

I said the first name that was coming into my mind nowadays. "Hester Frost."

"Well, Hester, maybe you could catch Jack . . . but, no, I guess not. It's only a little ways to the garage."

"He'd be gone by now, you mean."

"Yes. Too bad."

"Yes. What's Jack doing these days?"

"He's a teacher at the Crescent Dancing School."

"Oh. Crescent. I've heard of it."

"It's just temporary."

"And is Jack married?"

"Not yet." She smiled proudly at me. "He's going to marry my kid sister."

"Well, congratulations!"

"Thanks. They been sweethearts since high. They used to be a dance team. Maybe you caught their act someplace. Mostly in clubs around Long Island here. Harris and Walston."

"Harris," I said.

"Dottie Harris. Don't tell me you know her, too!"

"Dottie Harris," I said. "Dottie Harris."

"She teaches at the Crescent School, too . . ."

Now I was getting places. My trip to Kew Gardens had been worth while. At least I knew why Dottie Harris had been able to give me the runaround. It hadn't been a student who I had overheard talking with her in Studio J. Part of what she said had been the truth; she actually had had no lesson at that hour. She had been speaking to a fellow teacher, her fiance, Jack Walston.

I had also discovered that whatever it was that Jack had wanted in Anita's apartment, Dottie knew about it. And whatever it might be, it concerned in some desperate fashion the two of them.

Personality Gives Clue To Tension Headaches

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THERE'S one thing I dare say many Democratic and Republican candidates have in common these days. And many of you probably share it with them.

With all the excitement of the closing days of the political campaign, tension headache undoubtedly is a big problem among the voters as well as the candidates.

Sizable Problem

Even under more ordinary circumstances, tension headache is a sizable problem. Doctors generally concede that this is the most common type of headache.

Most persons bothered with tension headache are over the age of 20. About twice as many women are affected as are men. Many victims of frequent headaches have a long family history of similar trouble.

Since emotions obviously play a major role in this type of headache, it seems natural that a particular type of personality is most likely to suffer from this condition. And most studies bear this out.

Well-Adjusted Life

I don't mean that the tension headache patient is necessarily neurotic. He may have a well-adjusted life.

Generally, however, he is a tense, rigid, ambitious, driving perfectionist.

Many victims of frequent tension headaches, for some reason, find themselves unable to meet their own high standards. Inwardly, they are threatened by rage and anxiety.

In many cases, the headache is precipitated by problems of aggression and anger. The average patient, however, usually is unaware that anger plays any role in triggering the headache.

Symptomatic Headaches

While tension headaches have no special characteristics to distinguish them from symptomatic headaches, the attacks are constant or daily in 90 per cent of the cases.

Seldom is there any indication that an attack is about to occur.

Victims describe the pain as "dull," "throbbing," or "pressing," and it may vary in type from time to time.

Most frequently, the pain is located in the back of the head and neck. Sometimes it centers in the front of the head or the side and temples. Occasionally, it is generally diffused or may be more severe in the top of the head, the eyes or even the face.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

D. R.: I have been told that I have too much insulin in my system. What is the cause of this?

Answer: This is usually caused by overactivity of the pancreas, a gland in the abdomen which gives off insulin into the blood.

Sometimes this overactivity is due to a tumor growth.

Yesterday's Answer

Potomac Fever—Odd Illness

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Courting the presidency of the United States is a lot like courting a girl.

Courtship often has these three stages:

1. The bashful beau is introduced to a girl everybody says is the belle of the neighborhood, but all he can see is her warts.

2. He discoveres she is truly noble, so noble he couldn't possibly ever be worthy of her, so he might as well say farewell.

3. Then he sees another guy ask her for a date, and immediately the reluctant suitor becomes a besieging tiger. Now she is not only the most desirable girl in the world, he is sure he is the one lad in the county who can make her happy. And he wants to climb a mountain or swim an ocean to prove it.

And doesn't a political candidate's romance with the presidency sometimes go through the same three stages?

Both Dwight Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson went through the bashful beau stage and the I-ain't-the-guy-for-such - a - great-big-job stage before 1952, when they finally got down to the third, or brass tacks stage.

Today they're in a brass knucks return engagement. Who would have thought only six years ago that these two fine men, so dubious then even of dreaming of the presidency, would now be clobbering each other for the right to that job, like two kids trying to get the last piece of cake at a birthday party?

"It's a mystery to me why anybody even takes the job," many a voter says. "I wouldn't take it for twice the dough."

That's what he says. But if 10 of his neighbors told him he'd make a good president he'd begin to wonder. If 100 told him the same thing he'd begin to believe it himself. If 1,000 told him this, he'd pawn his motor car to raise funds to launch his campaign.

That's the odd thing about "Potomac fever." Under the right conditions anybody can be infected by it—from a vetetarian to a general, from a lady reformer to a lawyer.

Just why no one knows. For if courting the presidency is like courting with a girl, winning the presidency is like marrying a jealous woman with 169 million in-laws, all of them think they have a claim on you.

The president is supposed to hold the most powerful office in the world, but he can't even buy a necktie or drop in to see a movie by himself.

From the standpoint of leading a normal carefree human life, the winner in the Nov. 6 election will be the loser, the loser will be the winner.

But the defeated man won't feel that way. Those who have wooed and lost the presidency often are more bitter than those who have merely loved and lost a woman.

"I propose that unsuccessful candidates for the presidency be quietly hanged, as a matter of public sanitation and decorum," wrote the late H. L. Mencken. "The sight of their grief must have a very evil effect upon the young."

Bennett Cerf's

Try, Stop Me

A gang of robbers, out to make a killing, broke into a home for old actors by mistake. The retired (supposedly decrepit) thespians put up such a battle, the robbers were happy to make their escape. Bruised and bloody, they reformed ranks at the gang hangout.

"It ain't too bad," growled one. "We got twenty-two dollars out of 'em." The leader silenced him with a scowl and snarled, "I told you lugs to steer clear of actors. We had twenty-four bucks, when we broke in!"

Jerry Lewis bought a large melancholy looking dog of an unidentifiable breed recently, but complained shortly thereafter he definitely had been gyped. "They told me he was a lap dog," he grumbled. "Fine lap dog! Every time I try to sit on his lap, he bites me."

THE DAY U. S. VOTES

VOTERS of the U. S. cast ballots for 435 Representatives and 32 Senators—the latter figure usually augmented somewhat, as in Kentucky this year, to fill vacancies — the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November. The national election, however, did not always fall on that day.

Until 1872 each State fixed its own day for voting for Congress. Often it was not the same as presidential election day, set in 1845.

Between those dates, the "October States"—Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana —voted early for their representatives. Their elections were watched as important straws in the wind. Even today Maine, by special exception and an early Winter, votes in September for all offices except presidential electors.

Senatorial elections did not exist until the 17th Amendment became law in 1913. Previously, senators were elected by the State legislatures.

Why does election day fall in November? "Harvesting is over then, and Winter has not yet made the roads impassable," said Alexander Duncan, Whig Representative from Ohio, who wrote the presidential election-day law in 1845.

By a previous law, the date for presidential elections had to be set not more than 34 days before the first Wednesday in December, when the electoral college met — and still meets — every four years. Congress, however, hoped to make it at least 30 days ahead.

It couldn't be the first of November, for businessmen make out accounts on the first. It couldn't fall on Sunday, for unlike Europeans, Americans feel the Sabbath is no day for voting. Monday would leave too little time for traveling to the polls.

Thus the present election day was chosen. It never falls on the first, nor later than November 8. By giving America a national polling day, it eliminated such scandals as "pipe-laying," the practice of sending political gangs across state lines to vote more than once on different election days.

Voting as a citizen's privilege goes back to the ancient Greek city-states. On serious matters such as the exile of a citizen, the Greeks cast pebbles or bits of pottery into urns—the first secret ballots—2,400 years ago.

BEAUTY VS. DANGER

THERE'S beauty in the autumnal dress of the leaves but there's also danger when the leaves fall on highways and streets.

Poets write sonnets and triolets about the riot of color among the oaks and maples, but policemen also write accident reports when cars skid on those same leaves.

Photographers use up reels of film capturing the color of leaves on pavements—but insurance investigators take pictures of accidents that occurred on those same leaf-covered pavements.

In other words, be careful. A street of wet autumn leaves can be as dangerous as a street glazed with ice.

The sun never sets on spots where American helpfulness and charity are being dished out.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Revolutions usually explode spontaneously, although they are planned for decades. It is often so that the planners have little to do with the actual uprising and sometimes, they are able to take hold of the situation and ofttimes, it gets beyond them with an amazing rapidity.

The Russian Revolution of 1917 started as a palace revolt of a pro-Ally group, but the Bolsheviks seized it after nearly eight months and then they reaped all the fruits of the Revolution. Lack of food is one of the most usual causes for the discontent of a people. The Hungarians are a wheat-meat eating nation, accustomed to good cooking and a plentiful supply.

In April 1952, the Moscow Economic Conference was called by the World Peace Council, a Communist group with the object of improving the trade of Communist countries. The Hungarian delegation to this Conference stated that beginning with 1953, Hungary would be able to export 300,000 tons of grain a year to Western countries. This represented about half of Hungary's pre-World War II grain exports.

However, by the end of 1952, the Hungarian government had to admit that the crops had fallen far short of the planned targets. Food exports were slashed, but that did not eliminate the food shortage within Hungary, which once had been regarded as the "bread basket" of Europe.

While subsequent harvests were somewhat better, this year, Hungary was forced to buy grain in Canada. Weather did its part, but also bad management of the collective farms and lack of fertilizer played a considerable role in producing an inadequate productivity. A free people does not function competently under a collective system. At least two generations have to be killed to make a go of collectivism.

A people may be willing to suffer austerity for their own nation, but surely not for an alien conqueror. And the Russians are aliens, so far as the Hungarians are concerned. Centuries ago, when the Magyars settled in their Danubian land, they separated the East Slavs from the West Slavs the North Slavs from the South Slavs.

Then they were required by the course of events to decide whether they would choose the Orthodox Church of the East or the Roman Catholic Church of the West. They chose Rome, largely because they feared the East.

Although Hungary and Poland have been related and even at one time united by marriage, there is no record from the beginning of the Magyar invasion of Europe until the Communist conquest of their country by Stalin of the Hungarians ever turning eastward for their culture, their religion or any other phase of their lives. For Hungary culturally associated itself with Western Europe. It is therefore not astonishing that the Hungarian revolt should be so violent and so positively anti-Russian.

Poland, on the other hand, includes numerous Russian elements, remnants not only of Czarist days when Poland was part of the Russian Empire, but also from earlier times when Poland ruled over parts of what is now Russia. Also the languages of Russia and Poland are cognate, in the Slavic group. While the Poles are Roman Catholic, some of the related peoples on the borders are Orthodox as are still many of the inhabitants of Russia.

Polish intellectuals, while nationalistic, have a history of association with Russian revolutionists in the Czarist days, and many of them have long been Marxists. I make this point only to emphasize one difference between Hungary and Poland in the present situation.

"You mean Jack Walston? He's the last person came in."

"Yes! Jack Walston! I haven't seen him for years."

"Not for years, huh? Where'd you know Jack?"

"We . . . we went to school together."

"Really!" The lady was so pleased it made me wish Jack and I had gone to school together.

"Grade or high?"

"Grade."

"I thought it must be grade. Because I don't remember you. You see, Jack and I went to high together, Flushing High. Course he was a few years behind me. He was in my kid sister's class."

"Imagine me seeing Jack again!"

"Yes, after all these years!"

"He was an awful cute kid."

"And still is! Too bad you missed him."

"Where did he go?"

"Out the back way. He just stopped in to pick up the car keys."

"Well, Jack's doing all right! He's got a car now."

"No, he's borrowing my husband's. He's got to go to New Haven tomorrow. Up near New Haven."

"Oh, New Haven."

"That's right. Say, what's your name? You didn't tell me."

I said the first name that was coming into my mind nowadays. "Hester Frost."

"Well, Hester, maybe you could catch Jack . . . but, no, I guess not. It's only a little ways to the garage."

"He'd be gone by now, you mean."

"Yes. Too bad."

"Yes. What's Jack doing these days?"

"He's a teacher at the Crescent Dancing School."

"Oh. Crescent. I've heard of it."

"It's just temporary."

"And is Jack married?"

"Not yet." She smiled proudly at me. "He's going to marry my kid sister."

"Well, congratulations!"

"Thanks. They been sweethearts since high. They used to be a dance team. Maybe you caught their act someplace. Mostly in clubs around Long Island here. Harris and Walston."

"Harris," I said.

"Dottie Harris. Don't tell me you know her, too!"

"Dottie Harris," I said. "Dottie Harris."

"She teaches at the Crescent School, too . . ."

Now I was getting places. My trip to Kew Gardens had been worth while. At least I knew why Dottie Harris had been able to give me the runaround. It hadn't been a student who I had overheard talking with her in Studio J. Part of what she said had been the truth; she actually had had no lesson at that hour. She had been speaking to a fellow teacher, her fiance, Jack Walston.

I had also discovered that whatever it was that Jack had wanted in Anita's apartment, Dottie knew about it. And whatever it might be, it concerned in some desperate fashion the two of them.

Personality Gives Clue To Tension Headaches

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THERE'S one thing I dare say many Democratic and Republican candidates have in common these days. And many of you probably share it with them.

With all the excitement of the closing days of the political campaign, tension headache undoubtedly is a big problem among the voters as well as the candidates.

Sizable Problem

Even under more ordinary circumstances, tension headache is a sizable problem. Doctors generally concede that this is the most common type of headache.

Most persons bothered with tension headache are over the age of 20. About twice as many women are affected as are men. Many victims of frequent headaches have a long family history of similar trouble.

Since emotions obviously play a major role in this type of headache, it seems natural that a particular type of personality is most likely to suffer from this condition. And most studies bear this out.

Well-Adjusted Life

I don't mean that the tension headache patient is necessarily neurotic. He may have a well-adjusted life.

Generally, however, he is a tense, rigid, ambitious, driving perfectionist.

Many victims of frequent tension headaches, for some reason, find themselves unable to meet their own high standards. Inwardly, they are threatened by rage and anxiety.

In many cases, the headache is precipitated by problems of aggression and anger. The average patient, however, usually is unaware that anger plays any role in triggering the headache.

Symptomatic Headaches

While tension headaches have no special characteristics to distinguish them from symptomatic headaches, the attacks are constant or daily in 90 per cent of the cases.

Seldom is there any indication that an attack is about to occur.

Victims describe the pain as "dull," "throbbing," or "pressing," and it may vary in type from time to time.

Most frequently, the pain is located in the back of the head and neck. Sometimes it centers in the front of the head or the side and temples. Occasionally, it is generally diffused or may be more severe in the top of the head, the eyes or even the face.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

D. R.: I have been told that I have too much insulin in my system. What is the cause of this?

Answer: This is usually caused by overactivity of the pancreas, a gland in the abdomen which gives off insulin into the blood.

Sometimes this overactivity is due to a tumor growth.

Potomac Fever—Odd Illness

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Courting the presidency of the United States is a lot like courting a girl.

Courtship often has these three stages:

1. The bashful beau is introduced to a girl everybody says is the belle of the neighborhood, but all he can see is her warts.

2. He discoveres she is truly noble, so noble he couldn't possibly ever be worthy of her, so he might as well say farewell.

3. Then he sees another guy ask her for a date, and immediately the reluctant suitor becomes a besieging tiger. Now she is not only the most desirable girl in the world, he is sure he is the one lad in the county who can make her happy. And he wants to climb a mountain or swim an ocean to prove it.

And doesn't a political candidate's romance with the presidency sometimes go through the same three stages?

Both Dwight Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson went through the bashful beau stage and the I-ain't-the-guy-for-such - a - great-big-job stage before 1952, when they finally got down to the third, or brass tacks stage.

Today they're in a brass knucks return engagement. Who would have thought only six years ago that these two fine men, so dubious then even of dreaming of the presidency, would now be clobbering each other for the right to that job, like two kids trying to get the last piece of cake at a birthday party?

"It's a mystery to me why anybody even takes the job," many a voter says. "I wouldn't take it for twice the dough."

That's what he says. But if 10 of his neighbors told him he'd make a good president he'd begin to wonder. If 100 told him the same thing he'd begin to believe it himself. If 1,000 told him this, he'd pawn his motor car to raise funds to launch his campaign.

That's the odd thing about "Potomac fever." Under the right conditions anybody can be infected by it—from a vetetarian to a general, from a lady reformer to a lawyer.

Just why no one knows. For if courting the presidency is like courting with a girl, winning the presidency is like marrying a jealous woman with 169 million in-laws, all of them think they have a claim on you.

The president is supposed to hold the most powerful office in the world, but he can't even buy a necktie or drop in to see a movie by himself.

From the standpoint of leading a normal carefree human life, the winner in the Nov. 6 election will be the loser, the loser will be the winner.

But the defeated man won't feel that way. Those who have wooed and lost the presidency often are more bitter than those who have merely loved and lost a woman.

"I propose that unsuccessful candidates for the presidency be quietly hanged, as a matter of public sanitation and decorum," wrote the late H. L. Mencken. "The sight of their grief must have a very evil effect upon the young."

Leora Sayre's Talk Deals With Self Study

Mrs. Leora Sayre spoke on "Preparing for Later Years" when the Monroe Home Demonstration group met in the Ladies Aid Hall at Five Points for the October session.

Mrs. Leora Sayre spoke on "Preparing for Later Years" when the Monroe Home Demonstration group met in the Ladies Aid Hall at Five Points for the October session.

Members in attendance answered the roll call by naming their hobbies. Mrs. Harvey Brigner was appointed vice-councillor to fill a vacancy. Project booklets were distributed to the members and the program for December 5 was discussed.

Some suggestions she made were to keep mentally alert, have spiritual courage, keep physically fit and have a feeling of being acceptable and worthwhile to the community.

Mrs. Sayre said:

"Climbing the hill of life may be an exhilirating experience, but standing on the hilltop, aware of all the beauty behind and ahead, can bring immeasurable joy in the later years to ourselves as well as those with whom we are associated".

Others present were Mrs. Ned Long and son, Mrs. Allen Johnson, Mrs. Thomas Carter, Mrs. Ralph Dennis, Mrs. Noah List, Mrs. Kenneth Shell, Mrs. Loring Stoer and Mrs. Lyle Davis.

This Is Tossing Money To Breeze

MARSHFIELD, WIS— A youngster sent outside to rake leaves returned a short time later and handed her older sister a stack of currency she had picked up in the yard. The find was reported to police.

A bit later, the housewife called the police and said it was her own money. In her absence, she said, the older daughter had washed some draperies and had hung them on the line to dry.

The money, about $120, sewed into the hem of the drapes, dislodged and was blown about in the breeze. The younger daughter picked up most of it.

Discrepancies Seen In New Sheppard Data

CLEVELAND (AP)—Assistant Cuyahoga County Prosecutor Saul S. Danaceau, who is campaigning for elevation to a judgeship, says there are some discrepancies in a story told by a young woman which led to the reopening of the Marilyn Sheppard murder case.

The informer has been brought to Cleveland and Danaceau said he would confront her with discrepancies in her story "and see what happens."

The assistant prosecutor, who took a statement from the Cleveland woman in a West Virginia institution last week, said he expected "to have this matter cleared up very soon."

Danaceau would not reveal the information he obtained which led to reopening of the murder investigation. Other police sources said, however, that the woman told Danacequ that Dr. Samuel Sheppard beat his wife to death after attacking a man he found in his home.

Cleveland detectives who worked on the case labeled the story as "fantastic."

Dr. Sheppard, 32, a Bay Village osteopath, was convicted of second-degree murder for the bludgeon-slaying of his wife on July 4, 1954, and is serving a life term in the Ohio Penitentiary.

Danaceau's request for the Cleveland homicide bureau to check into the young woman's story was turned down Tuesday by Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze. The mayor said he could not permit police to be used for this purpose because of the manpower shortage and because Bay Village had not paid Cleveland $15,000 for the original investigation of the slaying.

2 Oklahoma Stars Eyed As All-Americas

McDonald And Thomas Getting Applause As Great Backfield Men

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oklahoma's devastating halfback combination, a slender tailback who recalls another era and a sore-shouldered fullback are among the leading All America backfield candidates as the football season swings into November.

Tommy McDonald, seeking All America honors for the second straight year, and Clendon Thomas are the twin spark plugs who ignite the nation's most potent offense, then demoralize opponents with their defensive skills.

"The best tailback we've ever had," is Tennessee Athletic Director Gen. Bob Neyland's description of John (Drum) Majors. The waspish, 162-pounder does most of the running, all the passing and kicking, calls signals and plays safetyman in the once-dominant single wing system.

Jack Pardee, a fullback who plays with unrestrained vigor, is the heart of the Texas Aggies as an outstanding runner and linebacker. He starred in vital Southwest Conference triumphs over Texas Christian and Baylor despite a deep shoulder bruise.

The Associated Press regional All America boards located in every sector of the country have made their first nominations complete through October happenings.

Quarterbacks John Brodie of Stanford, Paul Hornung of Notre Dame and Len Dawson of Purdue drew abundant praise.

At halfback, Jimmy Brown of Syracuse is making a tremendous bid.

Paige Cothren of Mississippi, C. R. Roberts of Southern California and Bill Barnes of Wake Forest rate highly at fullback.

USC's Jon Arnett, Michigan State's Clarence Peaks and 1955 All America Jim Swink from Texas Christian appear to be the victims of circumstance.

Arnett, one of the best runners of this or any year, was able to play only half the campaign under a Pacific Coast Conference ruling limiting certain seniors to five games. Peaks' college career ended last week due to torn knee ligaments requiring an operation.

A full season is necessary to adequately judge a player's performance under all conditions.

Swink continues to be an important cog in the Horned Frog attack as a pass receiver and blocker, but the lad who captured the nation's imagination as a climax runner a year ago is being fairly well contained by enemy defenses.

Three eastern performers — Milt Plum of Penn State, Bob Kyasky of Army and Guy Martin of Colgate — also are listed with the quarterback candidates. They are joined by Don Flynn of Houston, Jim Lugar of Virginia Tech and Ralph Hunsaker of Arizona.

Elsewhere the halfback list includes Abe Woodson of Illinois, Joel Wells of Clemson, Paul Rotenberry and George Volkert of Georgia Tech, Jim Klisanin of Wichita, Jack Hill of Utah State and Tom Morris of Princeton.

In the midlands, Bill Pricer, the unsung blocker, kicker and line blaster at Oklahoma and John (The Beast) Bayuk of Colorado rate mention. So do Georgia Tech's Ken Owen, Virginia's Jim Bakhtiar, Miami's Don Bosseler, Bobby Conner of Virginia Tech and Charles Anders of West Texas State.

Tom Heinsohn, former Holy Cross All-American basketball player, is with the Boston Celtics this season.

Exterminator carried 132 pounds when he won the Laurel Handicap at the age of 7 in 1922.

Losers Rap, Winners OK Grid Referees

NEW YORK (AP)—Whether officiating in the National Football League is good or bad apparently depends on a team's position in the standings.

A check of club officials showed that for the most part the coaches and owners of teams with poor records condemn the officiating while those with title chances see nothing wrong with the way the rules are being administered.

It all started with Tony Morabito, owner of the San Francisco 49ers, expressing dissatisfaction with the officiating after his club lost to the Chicago Bears 38-21 Sunday for their fourth setback in five games. Morabito said he would try to get Commissioner Bert Bell fired when the league meets in January.

"It isn't only Tony," said Brown. "There is a general feeling around the league that the officiating has to be improved. The thing that irks Tony is that you can't do anything about it. But something has to be done, and I think Bert Bell himself agrees that something must be done."

To which Bell replied:

"The officials are doing a great job. They have 50 or 60 judgment plays a game and naturally everyone doesn't see them the same way. We have the best officials around. I don't say they don't sometimes make mistakes. We all do. But they do a great job in a tough situation."

Lining up with Bell in the argument were officials of the Chicago Cardinals and New York Giants, whose 4-1 records gives them a tie for first place in the Eastern Conference.

Bowling Draws Increasing Interest From TV Viewers

NEW YORK (AP)—While a lot of people have been looking the other way, bowling has been attracting very large television audiences.

Whether televised bowling matches have influenced the tremendous increase in the national popularity of this sport or TV bowling merely reflects the widespread interest is a sort of chicken-or-egg argument. Certainly they are interrelated.

The television hubbub began a few years ago when a Chicago auto dealer named Peter De Met sponsored a bowling program on a local TV station there. After a short time the show developed the largest audience of any live local program in the Chicago area. If it worked in Chicago, De Met asked himself, why shouldn't it work on a national basis?

He borrowed $300,000 and launched the syndicated filmed series Championship Bowling three years ago. Its popularity increased rapidly until its audience ratings rivaled those of many widely publicized shows. Spurred by its success, competitive bowling programs such as National Bowling Champions have sprung into being.

What is there about this sport of bowling that makes it so popular?

There is a bowling authority here in New York who has a fascinating theory. When he is not bowling or talking or thinking about bowling, he writes a column for the Associated Press. His name is Hal Boyle.

Boyle's theory of bowling is simply this: It is the perfect civilized way that one can work off his repressed aggressiveness. Those pins at the end of the alley represent the things that bother you most — your job or wife or husband or boss or mother-in-law. It is highly significant, believes Boyle, that the bowling ball is black — which is symbolic of the evil one casts from himself.

Bucks Leading Big Ten In Rushing Total

CHICAGO (AP) — Ohio State will try to fatten up its Big Ten statistical edge against Northwestern Saturday and set a record of 16 consecutive conference football victories.

The Buckeyes are tops in rushing with a 287.5-yard average in two games, according to official figures released today. Illinois, Purdue's next foe, is second in ground gaining with 270.

Purdue leads the aerial department with a 165.7 average and Indiana is next with 124. The total offense leader is Illinois with 344.3 followed by Purdue with 320.2 and Ohio State with 316.

Michigan State's Spartans, who will try to make amends against Wisconsin Saturday for being upset by Illinois, has the best yards per play average of 5.6. Illinois is next with 5.2.

Michigan's average of 19.3 points per game is tops, followed by Purdue with 17.7 and Ohio State with 17.5.

Illinois' Abe Woodson widened his lead in individual rushing with a total of 382 yards in three league games. Mel Dillard of Purdue is second with 260. Purdue's Len Dawson, with 477 yards by passes and 12 by running, is No. 1 on total offense while Woodson is second.

Iowa's Bill Happel, 168 - pound junior halfback from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, leads in average gain with 8 yards per crack in 22 rushes. Woodson is second with 6.8 in 56 trips.

No Handicap Seen Facing Olympics

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—It's unlikely that war clouds in the Middle East will cast a shadow over the Olympic games in Australia later this month, Avery Brundage said today.

The president of the International Olympic Committee said he expects all athletes entered from the various countries to be on hand when the Olympic torch is lighted in Melbourne Nov. 22.

"The games are not concerned with political matters, at all," said Brundage. "I have no reason to believe that present fighting in Egypt will hurt the games."

Dayton To Host AAU Track Test

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The National AAU track and field championships for 1957 have been awarded to Dayton, Ohio, after a discussion in which the segregation issue was raised.

Dayton won out over Corpus Christi, Tex., Wednesday when convention delegates raised the possibility that Negroes competing in the meet might experience difficulties in finding living quarters in the Texas town.

Marty Marion Eyes Tribe Post

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Marty Marion, now a strong candidate for the Cleveland Indians managership with Leo Durocher out of the picture, says he is awaiting a visit from Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager.

The 39-year-old former St. Louis Cardinal shortstop, who recently resigned as Chicago White Sox manager, said Greenberg told him Friday he would confer with him in St. Louis this week. He didn't pinpoint the time.

"I haven't made up my mind yet," Marion said when asked if he was available for the job. "I don't want to comment until I've talked to Greenberg."

CHICAGO (AP) — Ohio State will try to fatten up its Big Ten statistical edge against Northwestern Saturday and set a record of 16 consecutive conference football victories.

The Buckeyes are tops in rushing with a 287.5-yard average in two games, according to official figures released today. Illinois, Purdue's next foe, is second in ground gaining with 270.

Purdue leads the aerial department with a 165.7 average and Indiana is next with 124. The total offense leader is Illinois with 344.3 followed by Purdue with 320.2 and Ohio State with 316.

Michigan State's Spartans, who will try to make amends against Wisconsin Saturday for being upset by Illinois, has the best yards per play average of 5.6. Illinois is next with 5.2.

Michigan's average of 19.3 points per game is tops, followed by Purdue with 17.7 and Ohio State with 17.5.

Illinois' Abe Woodson widened his lead in individual rushing with a total of 382 yards in three league games. Mel Dillard of Purdue is second with 260. Purdue's Len Dawson, with 477 yards by passes and 12 by running, is No. 1 on total offense while Woodson is second.

Iowa's Bill Happel, 168-pound junior halfback from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, leads in average gain with 8 yards per crack in 22 rushes. Woodson is second with 6.8 in 56 trips.

No Handicap Seen Facing Olympics

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—It's unlikely that war clouds in the Middle East will cast a shadow over the Olympic games in Australia later this month, Avery Brundage said today.

The president of the International Olympic Committee said he expects all athletes entered from the various countries to be on hand when the Olympic torch is lighted in Melbourne Nov. 22.

"The games are not concerned with political matters, at all," said Brundage. "I have no reason to believe that present fighting in Egypt will hurt the games."

Dayton To Host AAU Track Test

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The National AAU track and field championships for 1957 have been awarded to Dayton, Ohio, after a discussion in which the segregation issue was raised.

Dayton won out over Corpus Christi, Tex., Wednesday when convention delegates raised the possibility that Negroes competing in the meet might experience difficulties in finding living quarters in the Texas town.

Marty Marion Eyes Tribe Post

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Marty Marion, now a strong candidate for the Cleveland Indians managership with Leo Durocher out of the picture, says he is awaiting a visit from Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager.

The 39-year-old former St. Louis Cardinal shortstop, who recently resigned as Chicago White Sox manager, said Greenberg told him Friday he would confer with him in St. Louis this week. He didn't pinpoint the time.

"I haven't made up my mind yet," Marion said when asked if he was available for the job. "I don't want to comment until I've talked to Greenberg."

Voters Look More Closely Than Ever At V-P Entries

For the first time since the early days of the republic, the question of who shall be vice president of the United States will loom large on the political horizon when the American voter goes to the polls.

For whether it be Richard Nixon or Estes Kefauver, the American voter will be more conscious of who he is than he has been of any vice presidential nominee for many years.

For the office of the vice president has reached a stature it never held before. This year it looms especially large because of the unusual circumstances surrounding President Eisenhower's try for a second term.

The President has had a severe heart attack. He also has had a serious operation. If he is elected and serves out a second term, he will become the oldest man ever to occupy the White House.

Because of these circumstances, many people will feel when they vote for a vice presidential candidate that this year, more so than in previous years, they may also be voting for a President as well.

* * *

UNTIL RECENT years the vice president was a virtual nonentity, a Throttlebottom, a spare tire, to quote some of the incumbents of the office.

How many Americans ever heard of Daniel D. Tompkins, Richard M. Johnson, George M. Dallas, William R. King, William A. Wheeler or Henry Wilson? All served as vice presidents.

If anyone remembers Thomas R. Marshall, it's more likely to be because he once remarked, "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar," than because he served as Woodrow Wilson's vice president.

And how many can recall the name of the nation's first vice president? He is better known as the nation's second President.

It was John Adams who pinned the label of "insignificant" on the No. 2 office. Marshall said the office reminded him of "a man in a cataleptic fit—he is conscious of all that goes on, but has no part in it." John Nance Garner, who served with FDR, once remarked he considered himself "a spare tire."

A famous British political writer, Harold J. Laski, once threw up his hands when he wrote of the American vice presidency. He said, "One has to think for a moment of Mr. Marshall grappling with the problems of Versailles to realize how dangerous it is to think of a Mr. Throttlebottom as President of the United States."

* * *

IN THE early days of the republic, the vice president might well be the man who narrowly failed to be President, for the first prize went to the man who received the largest number of electoral votes, while the No. 2 spot went to the second highest.

But when this system of voting was replaced by the present one, the man selected to run for vice president usually was of no great importance. Many convention delegates didn't even bother to stick around long enough to vote for him. .

President Harding made an attempt to interest Calvin Coolidge in his Cabinet meetings, but nothing much came of it. When Franklin D. Roosevelt became President he entrusted to Garner the task of acting as his liaison man with Congress. However, FDR subsequently turned this chore over to others who were closer to him.

Harry Truman was not an important wheel in the government during his brief tenure as vice president. He said that when he became President he didn't even know the atomic bomb had been developed.

Truman, however, rectified this overnight when he became the White House incumbent. He made Vice President Alben Barkley a member of the important National Security council, consulted him frequently on major policy questions, and had him sit in at many Cabinet meetings.

It was not until Dwight D. Eisenhower became President that the office of vice president really assumed an important stature. The President increased the importance of the office gradually. He had Vice President Nixon serve in his stead at social functions, then called upon him to act as liaison man with Congress, and gave him other duties.

* * *

IN OCTOBER, 1953, the President sent Nixon on a 72-day, 38,000-mile trip around the world as an American goodwill ambassador. Nixon made a good impression wherever he went and his office increased in stature. Subsequently, he made other tours.

Then, when the President suffered his heart attack, Nixon presided over Cabinet meetings. He also acts as chairman of the NSC when the President is absent from Washington. Nixon now estimates he spends only 10 per cent of his time presiding over the Senate. A far cry from the past when this usually was a vice president's sole official duty.

Ohioan Reelected Girl Scout Head

COLUMBUS (AP) — Mrs. L. S. Weaver of Maumee was reelected chairman of the Kenowva Region of Girl Scouts during the final session of the scouts' regional conference here.

Some 1,500 girl scouts from Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia attended the annual meeting.

Mrs. R. B. Drukker of Berea was elected regional vice chairman, and Mrs. John P. McClain of Bellaire, secretary.

Campaign Cigars Just 'Too Good'

DALLAS (AP) — Judge Joe B. Brown lit up a cigar between cases in Dallas County Criminal Court. He leaned back, took a long draw and said:

"You know, this is the last of my campaign cigars.

"A fellow gave me five boxes of cigars with my name and campaign slogan on them. They were so good I never gave them out."

Japanese Lead World In Suicides

TOKYO—Japan has more suicides per capita than any other nation. The welfare ministry reported 22,138 in 1955—24.8 per 100,000 population.

This was a 1.4 per cent rise over 1954, when Japan also was the world leader, followed by Denmark, Austria, West Germany and Switzerland.

The majority of Japan's suicides were committed by persons under 30 and over 60.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: In the year since we've been married my husband and I have had a running battle about the handling of our finances. We both work and make equal salaries.

George feels that we should use my salary, less my weekly lunch and commuting expenses, to pay all maintenance bills; and that his salary should be banked, in entirety, in his name only.

I feel we should divide the costs of household upkeep, thus leaving me enough of my weekly pay check to buy clothes, or household items, or to put in a savings account.

Will you please help solve this dilemma.

P. K.

DEAR P. K.: To give both of you an objective view of fair dealing about money in marriage, may I explain:

Marriage is a partnership, presumably, in which the husband has certain specific obligations, and the wife has others. According to immemorial tradition, world wide custom and the law of this land, a man is first of all financially responsible for providing a home for wife and children. This includes food, shelter, clothing, medical care, etc., in proportion to his income.

The woman's complex obligation in marriage, her manifold duty that takes precedence over all others, is to be housewife, homemaker, mother of children, thrifty manager; minister to the health and general well being of members of the household; and architect of the family's social relations with neighbors, friends, relatives and the community-at-large.

Now, for a given marriage to be, basically, a right relationship, each party to the contract must accept his (or her) primary assignments as a matter of course—not trying to shirk or evade them.

When the man, for example, is earning the living as a matter of course (or trying to); and when the wife is loyally addressing herself to a woman's tasks in the home—then and only then is the stage set for a sensible New Deal in the partnership, if it happens that the pair would prefer some different "slicing" of their joint obligations.

In short, the logic of marriage compels us to recognize fully a man's traditional obligations versus a woman's, in family teamwork, as a frame of reference for redistributing the load to mutual advantage—according to individual partnership tastes, or new social circumstances, or emergency requirements.

In your case, George's "bad acting" is rooted in refusal to acknowledge, much less to accept, his basic social role in marriage which is to bring home the bacon and give his spouse economic shelter. It is this wrong-headed attitude of his that has made it impossible for you to talk sense to him; and has created a climate of sordid squabbling.

I agree with you that in minimum decency, George ought to contribute at least half to the regular costs of household upkeep. Then if he effects savings, by letting you clothe yourself, etc., I should think the savings account should be in your name as well as his. After all, what is marriage, if not mutual sharing, based on mutual trust? If George obstinately persists in his won't - share course, the spirit of unity doesn't exist, and you might as well end the farce.

M. H.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: In the year since we've been married my husband and I have had a running battle about the handling of our finances. We both work and make equal salaries.

George feels that we should use my salary, less my weekly lunch and commuting expenses, to pay all maintenance bills; and that his salary should be banked, in entirety, in his name only.

I feel we should divide the costs of household upkeep, thus leaving me enough of my weekly pay check to buy clothes, or household items, or to put in a savings account.

Will you please help solve this dilemma.

P. K.

DEAR P. K.: To give both of you an objective view of fair dealing about money in marriage, may I explain:

Marriage is a partnership, presumably, in which the husband has certain specific obligations, and the wife has others. According to immemorial tradition, world wide custom and the law of this land, a man is first of all financially responsible for providing a home for wife and children. This includes food, shelter, clothing, medical care, etc., in proportion to his income.

The woman's complex obligation in marriage, her manifold duty that takes precedence over all others, is to be housewife, homemaker, mother of children, thrifty manager; minister to the health and general well being of members of the household; and architect of the family's social relations with neighbors, friends, relatives and the community-at-large.

Now, for a given marriage to be, basically, a right relationship, each party to the contract must accept his (or her) primary assignments as a matter of course—not trying to shirk or evade them.

When the man, for example, is earning the living as a matter of course (or trying to); and when the wife is loyally addressing herself to a woman's tasks in the home—then and only then is the stage set for a sensible New Deal in the partnership, if it happens that the pair would prefer some different "slicing" of their joint obligations.

In short, the logic of marriage compels us to recognize fully a man's traditional obligations versus a woman's, in family teamwork, as a frame of reference for redistributing the load to mutual advantage—according to individual partnership tastes, or new social circumstances, or emergency requirements.

In your case, George's "bad acting" is rooted in refusal to acknowledge, much less to accept, his basic social role in marriage which is to bring home the bacon and give his spouse economic shelter. It is this wrong-headed attitude of his that has made it impossible for you to talk sense to him; and has created a climate of sordid squabbling.

I agree with you that in minimum decency, George ought to contribute at least half to the regular costs of household upkeep. Then if he effects savings, by letting you clothe yourself, etc., I should think the savings account should be in your name as well as his. After all, what is marriage, if not mutual sharing, based on mutual trust? If George obstinately persists in his won't - share course, the spirit of unity doesn't exist, and you might as well end the farce.

Roundtown Retrospect

By Mac Noggle

In the early days, our first lawyers rode circuits as did the preachers.

The judges, dressed to combat the weather with their long leather leggings, and of course their saddle-bags, traveled by horseback over mud roads and fording streams, sometimes averaging as much as thirty miles a day, trying their best to maintain a prearranged schedule. We find in the records that the principal subjects of litigation in those days has to do with land titles and the identity of roaming hogs.

Once in a while a murder trial broke the monotony of the Courts. The very first trial in the new county of Pickaway was held at Jefferson in 1810, and was the case of the State of Ohio against John Bennit, charged with murdering Reuben Cherry "with malice aforethought." The verdict was manslaughter and the Court ordered the prisoner confined in the "gaol" for eight days and pay a fine of 200 dollars and the costs of the prosecution.

At this same session of Court, "rules for the government of the Court and officers" were established. Among these were: "All attorneys must be orderly and treat each other with respect, at the Bar. To make no noise or contradict no gentleman addressing the Court or Jury, unless first moving the Court to interfere, and if the gentleman thus contradicted talks back, he shall, at the discretion of the Court, suffer a suspension.

* * *

"THE Prosecuting Attorney shall keep the secrets of the Jury and his own. The clerk or deputy must never leave the Court without permission. The Sheriff shall suffer no one to smoke within the Bar, and shall attend the Court at their lodgings and walk before them to the Court House every morning.

"He shall open Court thus: 'Hear Ye, Hear Ye! The Judges of the Court of Common Pleas of Pickaway County are now setting. All persons having any business to transact, give their attention, and they will be heard. God save the State of Ohio, and this Honorable Court.' The fees of County officers, at this time, shall be fixed as follows: Prosecuting Attorney, 160 dollars per annum; Clerk 60 dollars; Sheriff 60 dollars."

On April 26, 1810, the Pickaway County Commissioners entered into an agreement with Henry Nevill of Jefferson, to rent a room in his house for use as a jail, for 40 dollars a year. In the following June, the Commissioners rented another room in Nevill's home for a Court Room, at 60 dollars a year.

In November of 1810, Andrew Briner of Washington Township of Pickaway County, was hired to build, in four weeks time, a jail in Circleville, in the south-east corner of the greater Circle (about where our Fire Station now is); the building to be constructed of logs, size 16 by 22 feet. Briner was paid 25 dollars for this first Circleville jail.

The first Court room of Circleville was on the second floor in the home of Jacob Zeiger on Scioto Street, near where Pinckney joins. Annual rent paid was 40 dollars.

In 1821, a new jail was built on West Franklin Street by John B. Bently, at a point about where Dr. Shane's office now is. This was used until the completion of the jail which is still in the basement of our present Court House.

* * *

CIRCLEVILLE'S first building erected for use as a Court House, stood at the crossing of East and West Main Streets, now the corner of Court and Main. It was built of brick, was an eight-sided building, two stories high, and was surmounted with a tower in the center.

The building of Pickaway County's present Court House was begun in the fall of 1845. Jacob Strickler was hired to do the brick work, at $5.40 per thousand, "to be counted in the walls and no deductions for openings." Lumber for the building was purchased of Joseph Kinnear at 80c per thousand feet, delivered.

The building was 45 feet in width and 105 feet long; had large stone columns in front, and was surmounted by a tower in which was the Town Clock; the basement was built to serve as the County jail. This building was completed in 1847, at a cost of 45 thousand dollars.

Sometime in the early 80's, agitation began, to enlarge the building and to build a new jail and a jailer's residence, since the old jail under the Court House had been, time after time, condemned by the Grand Jury.

On February 2, 1888, the contract for the improvement was let to Doerzbach and Decker of Sandusky, Ohio, at their bid of about 105 thousand dollars.

The cornerstone for the "improved" Court House was laid on June 21, 1888, by the Masons. Our County got a nice, modern jail and Sheriff's home out of this, and the new North and South wings, which were badly needed, but what a mess they made out of the beautiful old building they had—it sure had its face lifted, but no one could have possibly called it a "beauty treatment."

The imposing stone columns in front were torn out and the classic tower on top and in the center of the building was wrecked. The present clock and bell tower must have been an after-thought — don't it look that way to you?

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Eisenhower's attempt to balance the Middle East picture — by criticizing the British, the French, the Israelis and the Egyptians — put a spotlight on this country's critical dilemma.

But it is only part of the problem unleashed by the British-French attack on Egypt.

Top government officials are privately very angry at the British and French. But the United States needs its two allies, as they need the United States, for defense against Russia.

In his speech to the nation Wednesday night Eisenhower tried to keep the way smooth for retaining the alliance. He chided the British and French for what they did. But he did not speak harshly of them.

And, while criticizing this country's friends, he also blamed Egyptian President Nasser for aggravating them.

But the Arabs have ears too. No Arab can ever be expected to forget the attack on Egypt this week by the French and British, who acted like the colonial powers which they were and are.

Already the Russians are accusing the United States of being in cahoots with the British, French and Israelis in the attack on Egypt.

Unless they can be convinced the United States does not condone the attack, the people of the Middle East will have no reason ever to trust a Western power again.

The people of Africa and Asia, newly freed from colonialism, will be watching the United States also.

This country attempted in the U.N. Security Council to block the French-British attack this week. The French and British blocked the United States with a veto. Now the case goes to the U.N. General Assembly.

What the United States does there to get U.N. action of some kind against the British and French will be under scrutiny everywhere. Yet, if the United States acts too strongly, it may wreck its alliance with Britain and France.

The people of Asia and Africa have reason to distrust the British and French from now on. It's not difficult for them to see themselves someday in the present position of Egypt.

But if they lose faith in the United States, they will have no powerful ally to turn to except Russia. The Arabs may well turn to Russia now no matter what the United States does.

Russian penetration and domination of the Middle East wouldn't have to happen overnight. The Russians have time.

This is all based on the assumption that Russia will not get actively into the conflict now. If that happened, there'd be a world war.

But more than all that is involved:

By their determination to go ahead with their attack on Egypt, no matter what the U.N. thought, the French and British have dealt that organization a blow from which it may not recover.

Further, it is possible vengeful Arabs will cut the Middle East oil lines, shutting off Europe's supply and forcing it to turn to the United States for help. That might mean rationing in this country.

One thing is certain: the French and British have done terrible damage to the efforts of the West to woo the Asians and Africans and make Russia look like the only big power to be feared.

State Income From Fines Show Drop

Ohio's share of fines in highway patrol cases and violations of liquor laws in July, August and September was $11,650 less than it was during the corresponding quarter last year, according to State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

Three-months collection during this fiscal year wre $270,991 as compared with $282,641 last year.

Patrol fines for the quarter were $264,291.48 this year as compared to $272,334.78 in 1955. Liquor fines were $6,299.53 this year and $10,306.25 last year.

134 Arrests Said Violation Of Rights

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — David Bennett has been arrested 134 times since 1938, but it's the last few times that hurt, Bennett complained to the FBI.

The 39-year-old unemployed laborer says Louisville police, who arrested him five times during the past week for loitering, violated his civil rights. The FBI said it would investigate.

Portsmouth Folk Now Talk Only About Telephone Strike

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—People here talk about the telephone strike, the weather—and the telephone strike.

They aren't sure which affects them more.

"Beautiful day" or "Lousy weather" used to be the greeting. Now they pass on the streets, grimly shake their heads and mumble something about "telephones" or the lack of them.

Usually, they are trotting somewhere they wouldn't have trotted 16 days ago. That was when Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. closed its exchanges here and in surrounding Scioto County after the installations were stoned by a crowd of 500 persons.

This is the third and longest telephone blackout this Ohio River city has seen during the strike, now in its 109th day. The strike began July 15 when 636 members of the Communications Workers of America walked off their jobs in parts of 24 southern Ohio counties.

Besides Portsmouth, a city of some 40,000, at least six other communities served by the company have gone without telephones during the long and bitter dispute.

The company says telephone bells won't jingle here again until "law and order is an established fact."

Meanwhile, a lot of people are grudgingly learing what they can do without — when they have to. So far, no one has resorted to smoke signals.

A few absent-minded residents still pick up a phone now and then, only to realize that they would hear more by listening to a sea shell.

Portsmouth housewives resort to th eold-fashioned gossiping over a backyard fence. Messenger service and parlor chats are back in vogue. Taxi-cab drivers cruise the streets hoping to be flagged rather than snoozing while waiting for telephone calls. Western Union is working like it never did before.

One teen-aged girl, who says she used to wait by the telephone hoping it would ring, complains: "there's just nothing to do now."

Naturally, you can't make dates by phone any more.

The police, taxi companies and amateur radio operators have set up an emergency broadcast system that is connected with hospitals, law enforcement agencies and fire stations.

In outlying Scioto County, deputy sheriff's make regular tours through rural areas, stopping at designated spots. Citizens who need them know when and where they can be found.

Sixty-one extra state highway patrolmen sent here by Gov. Frank J. Lausche also deliver emergency messages either by radio or in their cruisers.

Panty Raid Ends Coed-Sparked Frolic

MISSOULA, Mon. (AP) — Halloween fun turned into a panty raid at Montana University Wednesday.

An eyewitness said it all started when women students from the residence halls decided to run through Craig Hall and other men's dormitories.

The men then decided to run through the women's residence halls. Some of them turned it into a panty raid, emerging from the buildings waving their trophies.

ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court st., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Corn yields have been increased as much as 22 bushels per acre by loosening the subsoil to a 20-inch depth and adding fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in citing results of Purdue University tests.

As a result of the soil-loosening operation corn roots are encouraged to penetrate deeper into the ground and make use of moisture reserves in the subsoil, says the committee. The fertilizer is applied in a vertical band from the plow sole to the lowest depth of the soil-loosening operation.

"Helmut Kohnke and A. R. Bertrand of the Purdue agronomy staff, point out that loosening the subsoil is particularly helpful in maintaining corn yields when rainfall is scarce," says the committee.

"In such years, the soil moisture is often not sufficient to give maximum yields. Unless the subsoil has been loosened, crop roots do not penetrate deep enough to make use of the subsoil moisture.

"When fertilizer is placed in the loosened subsoil, the plant roots will concentrate in the grooves thus formed. Root growth then is thicker in the subsoil. The roots can reach needed moisture."

The Purdue agronomists report that the best time to loosen the subsoil is in the late summer or early fall, in preparation for planting corn the next spring. In the fall, subsoils are usually dry and shatter more easily, they point out.

Protect your gladiola bulbs from thrips injury by dusting with 3 or 5 percent DDT soon after digging, advises D. Lyle Goleman, Ohio State University extension entomologist.

These tiny dark colored insects usually retreat into crevices between the base of the petals and the folds of the leaves, Goleman says. Stored corms often become infested and soon become sticky from the bleeding of injured tissues. Corms severely injured become corky and fail to germinate.

The treatment is simple, Goleman explains. After digging merely put the bulbs in a paper bag, add a little DDT dust, shake until evenly coated, then store as usual.

* * *

Every Fall, tree owners become concerned when their evergreens, particularly pines, arborvitae, spruce and hemlock, begin to shed needles.

It is normal for these trees to drop their three-year-old needles this time of year, according to Dr. Rush P. Marshall, director of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories. But when two-and one-year-old needles turn brown and are cast off as sometimes happens, the trees become thin and sad-looking. Dr. Marshall advises:

"Don't be alarmed. If the trees go into Winter with sufficient soil moisture, they will respond next Spring with new growth. Feeding now will give the trees a desirable stimulus.

"Evergreen needles should be left where they fall. Do not rake them up. Needles provide valuable mulch which guards against fluctuating soil temperatures during the winter and excessive heat during the Summer.

"Arborvitae usually shed their flattened needles from the inner parts of a tree. Sometimes these collect as little 'nests' in forks of branches. Remove these by hand to prevent their decay from marring the green leaves.

"Excess needle drop follow injury to the roots or damage by insects or fungus disease."

Case Institute Likes Ike, O'Neill

CLEVELAND (AP)—A mock election of Case Institute of Technology has given President Eisenhower a 2-1 victory margin C. William O'Neill, Republican gubernatorial nominee, got almost as bit a margin over Democrat Michael V. DiSalle.

The vote: Eisenhower 542, Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson 244; O'Neill 502, DiSalle 277. One factor in the governor vote, students said, was that O'Neill gave a speech at Case last week.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Declaring that Ohio's great population growth makes the need for more well-trained ministers imperative, Methodist Bishop Hazen G. Werner launched a drive for $4 million for a Methodist theological school in Ohio.

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court st., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Corn yields have been increased as much as 22 bushels per acre by loosening the subsoil to a 20-inch depth and adding fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in citing results of Purdue University tests.

As a result of the soil-loosening operation corn roots are encouraged to penetrate deeper into the ground and make use of moisture reserves in the subsoil, says the committee. The fertilizer is applied in a vertical band from the plow sole to the lowest depth of the soil-loosening operation.

"Helmut Kohnke and A. R. Bertrand of the Purdue agronomy staff, point out that loosening the subsoil is particularly helpful in maintaining corn yields when rainfall is scarce," says the committee.

"In such years, the soil moisture is often not sufficient to give maximum yields. Unless the subsoil has been loosened, crop roots do not penetrate deep enough to make use of the subsoil moisture.

"When fertilizer is placed in the loosened subsoil, the plant roots will concentrate in the grooves thus formed. Root growth then is thicker in the subsoil. The roots can reach needed moisture."

The Purdue agronomists report that the best time to loosen the subsoil is in the late summer or early fall, in preparation for planting corn the next spring. In the fall, subsoils are usually dry and shatter more easily, they point out.

Protect your gladiola bulbs from thrips injury by dusting with 3 or 5 percent DDT soon after digging, advises D. Lyle Goleman, Ohio State University extension entomologist.

These tiny dark colored insects usually retreat into crevices between the base of the petals and the folds of the leaves, Goleman says. Stored corms often become infested and soon become sticky from the bleeding of injured tissues. Corms severely injured become corky and fail to germinate.

The treatment is simple, Goleman explains. After digging merely put the bulbs in a paper bag, add a little DDT dust, shake until evenly coated, then store as usual.

Every Fall, tree owners become concerned when their evergreens, particularly pines, arborvitae, spruce and hemlock, begin to shed needles.

It is normal for these trees to drop their three-year-old needles this time of year, according to Dr. Rush P. Marshall, director of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories. But when two-and one-year-old needles turn brown and are cast off as sometimes happens, the trees become thin and sad-looking. Dr. Marshall advises:

"Don't be alarmed. If the trees go into Winter with sufficient soil moisture, they will respond next Spring with new growth. Feeding now will give the trees a desirable stimulus.

"Evergreen needles should be left where they fall. Do not rake them up. Needles provide valuable mulch which guards against fluctuating soil temperatures during the winter and excessive heat during the Summer.

"Arborvitae usually shed their flattened needles from the inner parts of a tree. Sometimes these collect as little 'nests' in forks of branches. Remove these by hand to prevent their decay from marring the green leaves.

"Excess needle drop follow injury to the roots or damage by insects or fungus disease."

Case Institute Likes Ike, O'Neill

CLEVELAND (AP)—A mock election of Case Institute of Technology has given President Eisenhower a 2-1 victory margin C. William O'Neill, Republican gubernatorial nominee, got almost as bit a margin over Democrat Michael V. DiSalle.

The vote: Eisenhower 542, Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson 244; O'Neill 562, DiSalle 277. One factor in the governor vote, students said, was that O'Neill gave a speech at Case last week.

New Series Starting In Herald Tells Social Security Changes

To the reader: The following article opens a new series in The Herald, dealing with changes in the important Social Security Law. A series of articles carried some time ago by The Herald dealt with the law's 1954 amendments. The new series will explain changes that went into effect since that time.

BY C. C. DARBY
Columbus Manager
Social Security Office

* * *

Some important changes have been made in the old-age and survivors insurance program as a result of the Social Security Amendments of 1956 which President Eisenhower signed into law on August 1st.

All of the changes, directly or indirectly, affect our people as a whole. Working persons—employed and self-employed—need to know about them; their families need to know about them. I realize that it is part of my job as district manager for the Social Security Administration in this area to explain these changes in the law. I hope to achieve this in part through this series of articles.

In the articles to follow I shall describe the changes singly and in detail. Today, I shall restrict myself to a summary of three most important changes designed to strengthen this Federal insurance system which provides partial protection against loss of earned income upon the retirement or death, and now—under certain conditions — upon the total disability of the worker.

Effective with November of this year, benefits will become payable to women when they reach age 62. Survivors benefits for widows and, in certain cases, mothers of deceased workers will start with a payment for November which will be received early in December.

* * *

THE AMOUNT of the monthly payment will be the same that they would have started getting at age 65 under the old law. Beginning with November 1956, retired insured women workers and wives of retired insured workers can start getting benefit payments at age 62.

In these cases, the amount of the payment will be somewhat less than the amount that would have been payable at age 65 under the old law.

A change has been made in the total disability provision in the law. While the "disability freeze" provision which protects the social security insurance rights of workers is continued, monthly cash benefit payments beginning with July 1957, will be made to totally disabled workers when they reach age 50.

Beginning with January 1957 monthly benefits are now payable to a disabled unmarried child, even after the child has reached age 18, if the child was disabled since before he reached 18 and is the dependent child of a retired or deceased parent, step-parent, or adopting parent who is eligible for old-age insurance benefits under social security, or was insured for the purpose of survivors benefits at the time of his or her death.

Other important changes in the law affect farmers, both employed and self-employed. While there have been no changes in old-age and survivors insurance benefit rates, there are changes in the way benefits can be figured and the time necessary to become insured for payments.

The latter provision is of special importance to persons whose kind of work is now covered by social security as of January 1, 1956. Newly-covered groups are lawyers, dentists, chiropractors, veterinarians, naturopaths, osteopaths, and optometrists.

* * *

OTHER RECENT legislation provides for the extension of social security on a permanent contributory basis after 1956 to members of the armed services on active duty.

Some of the changes I have mentioned are retroactive to the beginning of 1956, others will become effective as of November of this year; still other changes will not go into effect until January 1, 1957, and one does not become effective until July 1, 1957.

Persons who may become entitled to old-age or survivors insurance payments during the months just ahead, because of the changes in the social security law, namely, women aged 62, disabled workers who have reached age 50, and children who were disabled before age 18, will not lose any payments if they delay filing a claim for benefits.

Payments to a woman who has reached age 62 can begin with the check for this November which will be due after the end of that month. However, women 62 to 65 do not need to apply for the payments immediately. "Even if they wait a full year before filing a claim at the social security office—that is, not until November 1957—they can still get any back payments they are entitled to.

A disabled working person who has reached age 50 can't start to get monthly benefit payments until July 1957, he will get back payments for all months beginning with next July. In the case of a child who became disabled before reaching 18, the first payments are for January 1957. However, if the claim for benefits is not filed until January 1958 back payments for the 12 months can be made.

Some people who have read about or have been told about the recent changes in the social security law feel that they stand to lose some benefit payments to which they may be entitled if they do not get to the social security office right away. I want to assure them that this is not the case.

* * *

REMEMBER, women age 62 have a full year after reaching that age to file an application without losing a single month's payment; a worker disabled before age 50 has until the end of 1957 to file without losing any month's payment to which he may become disabled before 18 can be made at any time before the end of January 1958 and back payments will be made for all 12 months of 1957.

I do have a word of caution in the case of the disabled worker, however. While he has until the end of next year to make his claim without losing any payments, it may be advisable for him to get in touch with the social security office before that time. While delay would not affect his own benefit payments, it might mean lower benefit payments to his survivors in case of his death he makes application to establish his disability.

In my next article I shall discuss the newly-covered professional groups and explain the steps they must take to have their earnings correctly reported for social security credit under the amended law.

NAVY," Mrs. Beverly Thornburg Ellis, blithely steps from cockpit of a Grumman Cougar jet fighter at Peconic River, Long Island, N.Y., after becoming the first woman passenger to break the sound barrier. Fountains In Cincy May Run In Winter

CINCINNATI (AP)—The fountains of Cincinnati's famous Fountain Square may spout something besides water later this year.

City maintenance chief Edwin Potts says the Junior Chamber of Commerce asked for a study on injecting anti-freeze into the recirculating system, to keep it operating over the Christmas holidays. Potts said he figured about 3,000 gallons of anti-freeze would do the trick.

Eager Retriever Undergoes Surgery

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP)—An eager retriever that gulped too soon will be released from the hospital this week.

Blackie, a 1½-year-old Labrador, is recovering from a "kelectomy," the first such operation on record in Henderson.

His owner Elmer Herron has been training the dog to catch his keyring and return it. Last week, Blackie made the catch but threw his head back too far and swallowed nine keys.

A veterinarian tried the more conservative methods of removing the keyring from the alimentary canal but all failed. He then resorted to surgery.

Snails can go without food for four months by living on reserves in their tissues.

However, Poland has also suffered from unsatisfactory crops and also from excessive withdrawal of manufactured goods from Poland to Russia. As a matter of fact, Poland, to avoid the effects of cyclincal tendencies in the West to which Poland exported coal, accepted a doctrine of concentrating exports to Soviet Russia and to the satellites.

Poland has been the biggest foreign exchange earner in the Soviet bloc because of her coal exports. To this country, Poland also exports ham, although there is no shortage of home-grown pigs in the United States.

It is surprising that no word has come from Bulgaria. This country, even when Georgi Dimitrov was alive, accepted the Titoist doctrine and was duly slapped down by Stalin. It has since gone through a difficult economic period and one wonders what the Bulgarian response to events in Poland and Hungary is.

When frightened, a mother woodcock often flies off with a chick held between her legs.

Blackie, a 1½-year-old Labrador, is recovering from a "kelectomy," the first such operation on record in Henderson.

His owner Elmer Herron has been training the dog to catch his keyring and return it. Last week, Blackie made the catch but threw his head back too far and swallowed nine keys.

A veterinarian tried the more conservative methods of removing the keyring from the alimentary canal but all failed. He then resorted to surgery.

Snails can go without food for four months by living on reserves in their tissues.

Fountains In Cincy May Run In Winter

CINCINNATI (AP)—The fountains of Cincinnati's famous Fountain Square may spout something besides water later this year.

City maintenance chief Edwin Potts says the Junior Chamber of Commerce asked for a study on injecting anti-freeze into the recirculating system, to keep it operating over the Christmas holidays. Potts said he figured about 3,000 gallons of anti-freeze would do the trick.

Vote For
ALBERT L. DANIELS
for CONGRESS

Daniels served in the Ohio House and Senate, where he sponsored and followed to passage--legislation in the interest of teachers, public schools, farmers, labor, veterans, old age pensions, public welfare, lakes, parks, etc.

←He Gets Things Done

THE PRESENT MEMBER OF CONGRESS FROM OUR DISTRICT has served 9 terms (18 years) for which he has received $230,000.00 in salary alone—and is now asking for a tenth term—or 20 years—on his record. The official congressional records show that during these 18 years he has been successful in securing the approval by the Congress of only — 5 bills — for which he has been paid $230,000.00. He has been a member of the agriculture committee of the Congress during all these years, but has not introduced a single bill, providing for the stabilization of prices of farm products. He has not introduced a single bill during these 18 years, providing for benefits for veterans, their widows, orphans or dependents.

Daniels Will Fight To Protect Your Interests

Sokolsky's

However, Poland has also suffered from unsatisfactory crops and also from excessive withdrawal of manufactured goods from Poland to Russia. As a matter of fact, Poland, to avoid the effects of cyclincal tendencies in the West to which Poland exported coal, accepted a doctrine of concentrating exports to Soviet Russia and to the satellites.

Poland has been the biggest foreign exchange earner in the Soviet bloc because of her coal exports. To this country, Poland also exports ham, although there is no shortage of home-grown pigs in the United States.

It is surprising that no word has come from Bulgaria. This country, even when Georgi Dimitrov was alive, accepted the Titoist doctrine and was duly slapped down by Stalin. It has since gone through a difficult economic period and one wonders what the Bulgarian response to events in Poland and Hungary is.

When frightened, a mother woodcock often flies off with a chick held between her legs.

Public School Take Tops $136 Million

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio's subsidy to public schools in the bookkeeping year which ended June 30 topped the $136 million mark, an increase of $8 million over the preceding year.

Over all, the subsidy amounted to $136,052,840 with payments of $104,136,806 direct to school districts, $22,453,209 to the teachers' retirement system, $3,714,610 to employes' retirement system, $2,275,100 for construction, $1,827,715 for rehabilitation and $1,654,400 for buses.

Of Ohio's 88 counties, 39 received more than $1 million.
